PARIS, April 17 (INS)—Reports that Germany is massing troops along the Yugoslavian frontiers reached Paris today. Other dispatches told of "incidents" along the Russo-Rumanian border.

BRITAIN TO HIT HARD IF ITALY JOINS NAZI WAR

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—Disclosure was made in the British press today that Britain is drawing up military plans to cope with the possible entry of Italy into the war on Germany's side.

Thetis' Sister Ship Missing

BRITISH SUBMARINE THISTLE
Overdue at Home Base, Believed Lost

BRITISH REPORT SUBMARINE LOST

LONDON, April 17—The British admiralty announced today that the submarine Thistle, operating in the North sea, is considerably overdue at its home base and must be presumed to have been lost.

The admiralty also announced that waters around the River Clyde, center of Britain's shipbuilding industry, have been mined.

The announcement was interpreted as an answer to German statements that newly-established submarine bases in Norway soon would be used for operations against England.

Sinking of the Thistle was announced in the following communique:

"The secretary of the admiralty regrets to announce that His Majesty's submarine Thistle, which has been operating in the North sea, is now considerably overdue and must, therefore, be presumed lost. The next of kin have been informed."

The Thistle was a sister ship of the ill-fated Thetis, which sank on a trial run June 1, 1939, with the loss of her crew of 99.

The London Daily Herald, chief organ of the powerful British Labor Party which prepared to bring Italy's attitude up for parliamentary discussion, declared:

"All the necessary naval, military and air arrangements are being made on the hypothesis that Mussolini means to join in. If he does, we must strike hard and swiftly."

With a note of dire warning to Italy, the Daily Herald asserted that there is enough Allied naval strength in the Mediterranean to deal with the Italian fleet, now reported in "normal maneuvers."

The Herald said that Britain and France are closely watching Italy.

The British press generally meanwhile, speculated on the reasons behind the sudden arirval of a German military mission in Rome followed by cancellation of a speech Premier Mussolini was scheduled to have made next Sunday.

ANTI-ALLIED TONE

London's diplomatic circles took particular note of the increasingly anti-Allied tone being adopted by the Fascist press.

The question on all lips was whether this foreshadows any possible efforts to change the status quo of the Mediterranean concerning which an Anglo-Italian treaty exists.

British government quarters maintained tight-lipped silence on this delicate matter, but the Labor party planned to smoke out an official statement in the House of Commons later today. Laborite Arthur Henderson announced he is asking Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain the following:

"Whether, as the anti-British propaganda in Italy emanates from sources controlled by the Italian government, the premier has any statement to make in view of the Anglo-Italian agreement's declared object, which is to maintain friendly relations between the two countries."

The Evening Standard reported today that Italy may soon make a demarche to Great Britain, warn-

In Hungary, Premier Count Pal Teleki, backed by Regent Admiral Nicholas Horthy, prepared for an even stiffer battle with Nazi sympathizers within the premier's own party. The Hungarian Nazis seek to restore former premier Bela Imredy to power for outright co-operation with Germany.

Governmental action to stamp out "fifth column" activity (boring from within a country by foreign political interests) was accompanied by intensified military preparedness in Rumania and Yugoslavia.

Yugoslavia reinforced her frontier guards while Rumania moved to put her Danube and Black sea ports under direct naval authority.

The Rumanian government also gave the army the right to commandeer railway cars without previous notice.

Alarm at the activities of a Norwegian "fifth column" which was reported to have facilitated the German landings has been one of the factors prompting the southeastern nations to clean up their own territories.

There are a half million Germans in Yugoslavia, an equal number in Hungary and more than 700,000 in Rumania. They have been organized into Nazi societies by leaders from the Reich.

Balkan authorities have frequently expressed the fear that they would form the nuclei of "fifth columns" which would strike from within if German armies approached.

Informed Bucharest quarters said that 30,000 Germans classified by their passports as agricultural and industrial experts, tourists and salesmen had entered Rumania in the past few weeks.

In Bulgaria today police warned all foreigners against leaving the capital, Sofia, without special permission.

The Turkish government recently expelled many German "tourists" suspected of espionage.

Yugoslavia Deports Hundreds of Nazis

BELGRADE, April 17 (AP)—The Yugoslav government began today to clear the country of hundreds of German "visitors" suspected of spreading propaganda and spying for the German secret police.

The cleanup was begun in Belgrade, the capital, where thousands of leaflets telling Yugoslavs not to resist Germany had been scattered by Nazi sympathizers from automobiles.

These leaflets, distributed last Thursday just two days after the German invasion of Norway and Denmark, said: "Do not resist Germany if you value your freedom."

Officials said that public opinion urgently demands stern measures to protect the national security as a result of the invasion of Scandinavia.

Twenty Germans arrested immediately after the leaflet barrage were expelled from Yugoslavia, and an order was issued today that all other foreigners still in Belgrade must leave within 10 days, unless they prove that their presence is "a benefit to the Yugoslav government."

A house-to-house search was decided upon by the police of the cities of Zagree, Ljubljana and towns even closer to the German border.

HIMMLER SHOT LONDON HEARS; BERLIN DENIES IT

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—Heinrich Himmler, chief of Germany's gigantic national police network, was reported in British press advices today to have been shot and wounded by a youthful Dane in Copenhagen, capital of German-occupied Denmark.

HEINRICH HIMMLER
Shot in Denmark?

The reports were denied by the headquarters of the Gestapo in Berlin.

"Our chief is safe and sound," a spokesman said.

The director of Adolf Hitler's dreaded Gestapo (secret police) was said to have been shot at close range, the bullet entering his mouth, according to Stockholm dispatches to the London Daily Mail and Daily Express.

The reported attempt to assassinate the 40-year-old Himmler, who ranks third in power in Germany, was understood to have occurred on a Copenhagen street, the Mail's dispatch said, indicating the wound was not fatal.

The Express, however, quoted reports reaching Stockholm as saying the shooting took place in the foyer of a Copenhagen hotel where Himmler made his headquarters since his arrival in the Danish capital last Tuesday a few hours after German troops invaded Denmark.

YOUNG PATRIOT

This dispatch described the gunman as a patriotic young Dane resentful of Germany's blitzkrieg seizure of his country.

The Mail's Stockholm correspondent cabled that "details are lacking, but it is believed the attack took place on Wednesday." That was the day immediately following Germany's march into Denmark.

Ironically enough, the frail-looking Himmler is Nazidom's "feared guardsman," charged with the task of preventing such attacks on Hitler and all other high German civil and military leaders.

As was his custom, Himmler had promptly followed the German army vanguard into Copenhagen to institute the drastic Nazi methods of coping with "hostile and unreliable elements" and police measures to insure the safety of the German troops and officials.

"UNSEEN RIGHT ARM"

Often called the Fuehrer's "watch dog" and "unseen right arm," Himmler ranks behind only Field Marshal Hermann Goering in power in the Reich.

Himmler, leading a corps of picked "eagle eyes," accompanies Hitler whenever the Fuehrer leaves Berlin. He and his men guarded the German chancellor last month on Hitler's trip to Brennero to interview Premier Mussolini.

Heavy German Air Attack on Fort Near Trondheim

STOCKHOLM, April 17 (AP)—A heavy (German) bomb attack on the 50-year-old Norwegian fortress at Hegra, about 25 miles east of the German-occupied Atlantic port of Trondheim, appeared today to have silenced the fortress' batteries, it was reported here.

SWEDEN CALLS RECRUITS, ISSUES WAR KITS . . . IN STOCKHOLM

The Hegra guns, although directed mainly against an attack from Sweden, formed an obstacle to Germany's control of the railroad extending from Trondheim to Sweden, along which the Nazis are consolidating a potential line of defense.

A trainload of German troops slipped by Hegra's guns yesterday by a ruse and reached the Swedish border, which is about 50 miles from Trondheim.

Meanwhile, German troops hastened moping up operations in southern Norway behind the poten-

NAZIS SAY BRITISH BATTLESHIP HIT

BERLIN, April 17 (INS)—The German high command announced this afternoon that a British battleship has been directly hit by a German aerial bomb off the southwest coast of Norway.

The announcement said:

"The German air force bombed British naval units southwest of the Norwegian coast this morning.

"One British battleship was hit directly by a bomb of heaviest caliber.

"Explosions and flames aboard the battleship were observed."

Previously, the high command announced that a German U-boat had sunk a British destroyer of the Tribal class off the Shetland islands.

Find Nazi Arms In Swedish Port

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—Discovery of large quantities of German arms and ammunition, concealed in German coal boats in Stockholm harbor was reported today by the London Evening Standard in a dispatch from its correspondent in the Swedish capital.

The Standard's correspondent said Swedish police discovered the arms and munitions last night when they inspected the Nazi ships Drossel, Erpel and Helios. The implements of war assertedly were concealed beneath the cargoes of coal.

U. S. Blitzkrieg Costs Boys $50

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 17 (AP)—Playing war cost a couple of lads a fine of $25 each.

As a city sprinkler lumbered past a group of "warriors," one shouted:

"There goes a German tank."

They let loose a volley of rocks, pelting the truck so vigorously that the driver deserted the cab and called police.

Stores to Stay Open April 19

Boston retail stores, generally, with some exceptions, will be open all day next Friday, April 19.

$7000 A.B.C. BERTH TO BUCKLEY AGAIN

Gov. Saltonstall today reappointed John P. Buckley to the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission for a three-year term.

Buckley is a Boston Democrat and former member of both the State Senate and House. Under the law it was necessary for Governor Saltonstall to appoint a Democrat to the position which carries a yearly salary of $7000.

The reappointment must be approved by the Governor's Council.

The Governor also reappointed John L. Smith of Barre, a trial justice.

As he indicated yesterday Governor Saltonstall made no change in the status of William P. Husband, Jr., bank commissioner, whose term has expired. He is now acting as a holdover.

Lupien Probes Hub Constables

Ulysses J. Lupien, state civil service director, disclosed today that his office is investigating complaints that city of Boston constables have been appointed illegally to civil service positions.

An investigator attached to his office, Lupien said, is probing the complaint of taxpayers groups that 25 or 30 individuals were appointed constables and then given jobs under civil service.

If his investigation shows the charge to be true the practice will be stopped immediately, Lupien stated.

New Electric Rate To Save $21,000

Customers will save $21,000 annually through adoption of a new rate schedule filed with State Public Utilities Commission, officials of the Cape & Vineyard Electric Co., said today.

The reductions, effective May 1, affect the general rate throughout the year and also the summer rate for seasonal customers.

Barre Official Fights Charge

WORCESTER, April 17—Charged with violating the corrupt practices act during the recent Barre town election, Joseph H. Higgins, selectman and deputy sheriff in Barre, was arraigned in district court today and pleaded not guilty.

Judge Frank L. Riley continued the case until April 23.

Court action resulted from a hearing before Judge Riley last month of alleged irregularities in the contest for selectman between Higgins and Ernest W. Pratt. Pratt was defeated by 52 votes.

Higgins figured in the news in 1937 when he found little Winona Nelson of the "Babe in the Wood" disappearance mystery.

Storm, Heavy Gales Reported in Texas

WASHINGTON, April 17 (INS)—The U. S. Weather Bureau today reported a storm raging near Galveston, Tex., moving east northeastward attended by strong shifting winds reaching gale force in the next 12 hours.

The disturbance was reported to be extending along Louisiana and Mississippi coast and will reach Alabama and extreme northwest Florida coasts this afternoon or tonight.

200-Pound Husband Says Wife Beat Him

SALEM, April 17—His wife struck and beat him repeatedly with clubs and milk bottles, hammered him with her fists and hurled dishes, food and a plant pot at him, a 200-pound Peabody leather factory foreman testified here today.

The witness, Lester W. Choate, 40, sought an uncontested divorce from Lucille E. Choate of Beverly. Probate Court Judge John V. Phelan tok the case under advisement.

FLEW INTO RAGES

Choate said he and his wife got along all right from the time of their marriage in 1918 to 1935.

"Then my wife's attitude to me and to our son and daughter suddenly changed," he testified. "She would sometimes sulk for days, sitting in a corner and refusing to speak or answer questions.

"At other times she would fly into terrible fits of temper, yelling and swearing and abusing me and the children.

HURLED PLANT AT HIM

"She would not get meals or do the housework. I had to prepare the food for the children and myself.

"She struck me with her fists or improvised weapons at least 200 times. Once she beat me across the back and shoulders with a milk bottle, striking me 20 times or more.

"I brought her home a nice plant, and she was pleased at first. Then later she got ugly and threw pot and all at my head. I ducked and it went out a window into the street.

"One night I went to the movies and came home again about 11 o'clock. The door was locked and my suitcases were on the steps all packed with my clothes.

"I knocked and hammered for ten minutes, but my wife wouldn't let me in. So I left. We never lived together again."

SAYS WIFE DUPED HIM OVER BIRTH OF BABY

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—A strange story of being tricked into believing that he and his first wife, Gladys, were the parents of an infant was related by James A. Hall, 34, in an answer to contempt of court proceedings on file today in circuit court.

Hall, an engineer, said he celebrated when his wife returned from a hospital in 1931 with a bbay boy. He also asked for, and got, a raise from the boss.

A month later, he added, his wife told him she had entered the hospital when another woman was about to become a mother and had brought home the latter's unwanted baby.

Mrs. Hall, awarded custody of the boy when she obtained a divorce in 1936, accused her former husband of being in arrears on support payments for the child.

Hall seeks to be relieved of financial responsibility on the ground that he is not the father of the child and that he was tricked into adopting it.

He has re-married since his divorce.

Mrs. Hall denied the charge of trickery. She said her former husband knew that she went to the hospital and was confined for 10 days only for the purpose of deceiving her friends.

U. S. Launches 2 Huge Battleships in June

NEW YORK, April 17 (INS)—The 35,000-ton battleship North Carolina, first to be launched in this country in the past 19 years, will glide into the water at New York navy yard June 13 and two days later her sister ship, the Washington, will be launched at Philadelphia, it was announced today.

The North Carolina cost about $69,000,000 and the Washington about $66,000,000.

Kind Act Costs Driver His Life

PONTIAC, Mich., April 17 (AP)—Russell Patterson, 28-year-old factory worker who stopped on his way to work to help a fellow motorist, was killed by a train today as a result of his kindness.

Patterson attached a tow chain to his own car and pulled the other one out of a ditch. In doing so, he drove onto the Grand Trunk railroad tracks at the Opdyke road crossing. A train reached the crossing at the same moment.

WPA CUT 42,598

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—The WPA said today 2,161,811 were on its rolls as of April 10—a reduction of 42,598 under the previous week.

Million Each For 2 in Will

Trust funds of $1,000,000 each came today to two Cambridge women, named heirs in the will of their father, William Roy Adams, filed for probate in Indianapolis.

The two are Mrs. Sarah Ann McClennen of Fayerweather st., and her sister, Jane Adams, now attending Sarah Lawrence College in New York.

Mrs. McClennen is the wife of Louis McClennen, Boston attorney, and is prominent in society. She was chairlady at last year's Ball-Ball Ball in the Hotel Somerset. She has lived in Cambridge for six years and is the mother of three children, Adams, James and Helen McClennen. She is a graduate of Sarah Lawrence College.

Her sister, Jane Adams, made her debut in Boston at a tea given by Mrs. McClennen during the 1939 social season. At present the latter is in Indianapolis. Their father died recently in Los Angeles.

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Funeral Tomorrow Of Harry E. Noyes

Funeral service of Harry E. Noyes, 43, wealthy Boston automobile dealer and sportsman killed in an airplane crash at Higganum, Ct., will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Church, Homer and Center sts., Newton Center.

Noyes, a resident of Newton and president of the Noyes-Buick Co., and an associate in the company, Robert N. Rideout, 43, of Marblehead, were killed in a crash in which the pilot and a third passenger escaped.

Recovering at Middlesex Hospital in Middletown, Ct., is Charles Smith, caretaker of the Noyes summer estate at Marblehead.

Smith suffered fractured ribs, cuts and possible fractures of one arm and the lumbar spine.

The pilot, John R. Hartwell, 28, of Brookline, suffered less serious injuries and was discharged from the hospital yesterday afternoon.

Hartwell stated that a failing motor caused the tragerdy.

Hartwell's opinion was backed by that of Albert E. Spencer of Higganum, Ct., one of the rescuers, who said he heard the motor sputtering and, a few minutes later, saw the flare when the plane burst into flames after crashing several miles from his home.

A preliminary report of the accident is expected to be ready within a day of two, according to Aeronautics Commissioner Robert L. Morris, who spent yesterday at the scene of the crash.

Tries to Pay Census Lister 4 Cents a Head

FITCHBURG, April 17 (AP)—A rural census taker reported today that he had found a housewife willing to pay for being enumerated.

"I'm sorry I have no change," said the woman as she handed the enumerator a $2 bill after he had completed his task.

"What's that for?" inquired the incredulous census man.

"Why, don't I pay you 4 cents for every name taken in my home?" asked the woman.

The census taker explained that she didn't, but the government did.

GOP HAILS CHOICE OF MARTIN

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Republican leaders hailed today as an accent on youth and "liberalism" the selection of Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts as keynote speaker and permanent chairman, respectively, of the party's national convention at Philadelphia June 24.

The choices, made by the arrangements committee in Philadelphia yesterday, are subject to approval by the convention itself, but a spokesman at party headquarters here said that would be a matter of course.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, has yet to fix a date for a meeting of his party's arrangements committee.

Two candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan, were among those who described the Martin and Stassen choices as "excellent."

"Both are satisfactory to me," said Taft, "I think it a very good idea to put a young man like Stassen out in front. Martin will provide the experience."

Senator Austin of Vermont, assistant Republican floor leader, said Stassen's selection indicated that the party was ready to recognize youthful voters as an important factor in the coming election.

He termed Martin "entirely competent" and said that with his experience he should "make a good man."

Rep. Hancock (D.) of New York, remarked that Martin would "come away from the convention with more friends than he had before."

Martin, at 55, is winding up his first term as House Republican leader. He is serving his eighth term in Congress and has been mentioned as a possible "dark horse" presidential nominee. He is a North Attleboro, Mass., newspaper published.

Woman Hikes 38 Miles in Hunt For a Plumber

PHILADELPHIA, April 17 (AP)—Mrs. Michaelina Karpinski, 70, left her washing machine and went to find a plumber near by. She walked 38 miles before she discovered she was going the wrong way—and she never did find the plumber.

She began her trek Monday and was found yesterday on railroad tracks at Coatesville, Chester County. Her clothes were muddy and her shoes were worn out.

She said she became lost near her home, and knowing the Pennsylvania railroad tracks led past her house, she mounted the embankment and started walking. Her husband began a search when he came home from work.

RADCLIFFE GIRLS PICKET HARVARD DORMITORY
Resent Student's 'Slap' in Article

Angry Girls Tree Harvard Satirist

When last seen by reporters, George Robert Stange, Harvard junior and target of an attack by Radcliffe girls, was perched precariously in the rarified air of safety.

That is to say, young Stange, after being beshrieked over the head with the signs of picketing girls, was atop a stone wall from where he chided the protesting girls.

Geo. E. Stange

"Look at 'em," the intrepid author of a stinging article in the Harvard Progressive declared, as he pointed to the angry girl below. "See if what I wrote wasn't the truth. Not a smooth silk stocking in the crowd and if they're not frizzly-haired, I'll get glasses."

Sure enough, reporters observed, not one of the Radcliffe delegation wore silk stockings. All were either bare-legged or wearing socks.

Stange provoked the feminine demonstration when he wrote that Radcliffe girls were "little frizzly-haired girls with plain dresses and stockings that should be blue, but usually are only wrinkled."

The girls, asked for their names, elected to identify themselves as Hedy LaMarr, Ann Corrio, Mary Stuart and Ann Sheridan, the "Oomph" girl who has a feud with Harvard.

DATE BUREAU STARTS 'MID STUDENT QUALMS

Still fearful of how divinity school authorities will view their business venture, two Boston theological students sat back today and waited for clients for their new "date bureau," the Elite Service Bureau, established to furnish well-bred escorts to lonesome ladies.

JOHN YENCHES
Date Bureau Director

Trembling a bit, John L. Yenches of Jamestown, N. Y., a freshman at Harvard Divinity School, registered the bureau at Boston City Hall. Co-director in the venture was Joseph D. Parkman of Jamaica Plain, a student at Gordon Divinity School.

There are 30 eligible escorts now on the staff of the bureau with a potential list of 120 altogether, if the demand is sufficient to employ them. And some of them can speak two or three languages and can act as instructors in swimming, horseback riding, golf or dancing.

What is more, if you want them to mind children or shop, or run errands, the boys are just as accomplished.

Yenches said the character of every one of the escorts has been checked and double-checked. And the character of the clients will be, too, he asserted.

What with hints about proper conduct toward a bibulous client and keeping away from client's room unless properly chaperoned, the boys are looking forward to some exciting evenings. They represent such colleges as Harvard, Yale, Tech, Boston College, Heidelberg, Germany; Bates, Alabama, University of Maine, Northeastern,

Fear Maine Floods As Ice Jams Mount

Ice jams along the Aroostook river brought flood levels at Masardis and Caribou, Me., today, while spring freshets resulted in rising waters in other sections of New England, but without serious flood danger.

Fifteen families were rescued by boats at Masardis, while the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad had to reroute trains because of floods at Caribou.

The weather bureau predicted continued cloudy weather with light rains today.

In Lowell, Robert Connor, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Connor of Pleasant st., was drowned in the racing Concord river as the sodden bank gave way and plunged him into the stream.

Playmates told police who were dragging the river near Rogers st. bridge for his body, that he and Thomas Flynn, 4, were standing on the banking tossing chips into the water to watch them float away on the torrent, when the accident happened. Older children had warned the pair from the dangerous embankment earlier.

At South Windham, Me., an 8000-gallon pond of kerosene, pouring from a punctured railroad tank car, seeped into the ground, prevented by a barricade of earth from flowing into the Presumpscot river and threatening an electrical plant. The tank was one of nine cars in a 46-car train which was derailed by a "soft track."

Working in 12 different sections, emergency crews of the Maine Central line finally restored service on the Bangor-Vanceboro line, which was interrupted Sunday when flood waters of the Penobscot washed out the railbed.

Auto Workers Vote on Unions

DETROIT, April 17 (AP)—A year-long battle between CIO and A. F. of L. auto workers unions for domination in General Motors Corp. plants culminated today in National Labor Relations Board elections involving nearly 137,000 employes.

The workers, leaving their jobs at times designed to cause the least interruption to production, cast their ballots at polling places inside the plants.

Most of them marked their preference either for the United Automobile Workers (CIO), the United Automobile workers (AFL), or "neither." In individual departments of a few plants, pattern makers and die sinkers' unions, both A. F. of L. organizations, were on the ballot.

The election was the largest ever attempted by the NLRB, with more than twice as many eligible workers as cast ballots in a Chrysler Corp. poll several months ago which the UAW-CIO won by a large majority.

SAVE BABIES IN SO. END FIRE

Because of the quick action of new tenants, a score of men, women and chilin escaped possible death or injuries during a spectacular fire and explosion in Pembroke at., So. End, firemen said today.

Rescued in the nick of time were a six-day-old baby, carried out by its mother, Mrs. Alice Sampson, and the baby's two-year-old sister, Ann Lorraine, who was saved by Mrs. Sampson's sister, Miss Lorraine Rogan.

Shortly after the new tenants, Mrs. Margaret Greenwood and members of her family, discovered the fire and sounded the alarm, a hot air blast blew out the doorway leading to the roof of the four-story structure, shattering many windows.

Crackling flames menaced Mrs. Sampson as she stumbled out of the flaming house with her baby. The electric lights went out while Miss Lorraine groping through the darkness, looked for the baby's sister, found her in the kitchen, and led her to safety.

Damage was estimated at $4000.

FIRE LOSS DIMS JOY OVER JOB

John MacMinn of Beacon st., Newton Center, a painter, went to work today after a long layoff, but his happiness was not what it might have been.

For MacMinn returned home to his four children, elated over work, only to find a two-alarm blaze had destroyed his uninsured furniture. The fire caused damage estimated at $4500.

MacMinn had taken his wife and children to the home of a relative for the day after the owner of the two-family house, who only recently purchased it, notified him that he planned to fumigate the first-floor apartment, which was unoccupied.

Firemen at first believed the fumigating candles being used on the first floor had caused the blaze, but inspection showed a defective chimney was to blame, the fire having started in the upper apartment.

Traffic on the heavily-travelled Beacon st. was tied up for an hour and a half while firemen battled the blaze.

Charges Pile Up Against Hub Maid

Troubles piled up today for Ruth Ann Douglas, 23, as police held her in Charles st. jail while they checked additional complaints against her concerning thefts and forged checks.

The girl, former inmate of Sherborn Reformatory, was trapped through a want ad inserted in Boston newspapers by police following numerous complaints from Greater Boston homes that had employed her as a domestic.

She was held in $2000 bail after her arraignment in Dorchester court. As a maid and practical nurse, she held jobs only long enough to loot her employers' homes, officers said. Her case was continued to Monday.

Police Chief Thomas Evans of Natick, the latest complainant, said he held a warrant charging her with cashing a worthless $25 check in Natick, March 12. Wellesley officials said she is wanted there for passing spurious checks.

Police said they also were investigating a complaint by Claire Sprague, head of a South Natick rest home, who said the girl worked for her and that when she left a fur coat was missing.

Girl Crarges Church Bells Disturb Sleep

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Complaining that the 50-year-old bells of St. Sebastian's Catholic Church disturbed her slumber, Ruth Baxter, 21, a secretary, tried to have the pastor brought into court on charges of violating the city's anti-noise ordinance.

Miss Baxter, a Presbyterian, who lives near the rear of the church, said that when she telephoned her objections to the bells to the pastor, the Rev. L. Tuciarone, the priest replied:

"Bells do not annoy people with a clear conscience. If anything is on your conscience, the bells naturally bother you. The bells are ringing to call people to church."

Miss Baxter said the bells, which have rung daily for half a century, began tolling each week day at 5:30 a. m., and at 7 on Sundays.

"Church bells are a necessary part of our lives," observed Magistrate William W. Hoppin. "They are used to summon people to church and prayer."

"If I want to go to church," replied Miss Baxter, "I set my alarm clock."

Magistrate Hoppin declined to grant a summons, but said she could renew her request next Monday if a personal conference with the pastor failed to clear up the difficulty.

RUMANIA ACCEPTS NAZI TIMBER GRAB

BUCHAREST, April 17 (AP)—The Rumanian Senate provisionally accepted today a government bill to give Germany a 30-year lease on almost 100,000 acres of timber—despite testimony of army officers that the lease would jeopardize national defense.

Ionescu Sisesti, minister of agriculture, defended the bill on grounds that it was part of an economic understanding with Germany which greatly benefited Rumania.

Military exports said the vast forest reserves in Central Rumania constituted a natural defense line.

High-ranking officers declared that enactment of the bill would be a great strategical error, allowing Germany to send a large corps of experts and workmen into forests located at "the most vulnerable spot in the country," on the old Rumanian-German border.

PLAN NAZI RAILROAD

Sisesti said the Germans should be allowed to build a railroad and establish factories there to carry out lumber operations.

The agricultural minister said the Germans had agreed to replant cutover land and to train Rumanians in forest culture.

Germany previously had protested Bucharest's embargo on wheat exports and temporary stoppage of oil shipments and, it was acknowledged in official quarters, Rumania is in an extremely difficult position.

Foreign observers saw the new measures as a severe blow to Germany's war economy. Rumania, in some years, has exported to Germany more than one million metric tons of wheat a year, which is about two-thirds of Germany's normal import requirements.

Units of the Russian Navy were reported gathered in unusual number at Odessa, Soviet Black Sea port.

"Strategic" factories working for national defenses were ordered to build up immediately a 15-day emergency supply of gasoline and fuel oil which may not be touched unless there is general mobilization.

Pope Urges World Pray For Peace

VATICAN CITY, April 17 (AP) Pope Pius XII called upon the faithful throughout the world today to pray to the Virgin Mary during May for the return of peace.

The Pontiff's plea was made in a letter to his Secretary of State, Luigi Cardinal Maglione, recalling he had requested a similar crusade of prayer last year when talk of armed strife, the forerunner of war, held all in trepidation.

"Now that the situation is worse and that this terrible war has broken out," His Holiness wrote, "we cannot but call again on our children scattered throughout the world to gather around the altar of the Virgin Mother of God daily during the next month consecrated to her to offer suppliant prayer."

The Pope said that from the beginning of the war he had done everything in his power to champion the "restoration of that peace and concord which must be based on justice and reach its perfection in mutual fraternity and charity."

"Our heart is full of sorrow not only for the terrible calamities that overwhelm the countries at war, but also for the evils every day more menacing that threaten other nations," the Pope said.

The Pontiff, expressing hope especially that during May "the white hosts of children may flock to the shrine of Our Lady," said "our Divine Redeemer loves them with a special love."

BERLIN, April 17 (AP)—German occupation forces in Denmark today were forbidden to buy coffee, tea and sugar. They also were forbidden to buy alcoholic beverages.

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—"Numerous" new Belgian troops have been called to the colors to safeguard strategic communications points, Reuter's Agency stated in a dispatch from Brussels today.

OSLO, April 17 (AP)—Several thousand Norwegian officers and men have been captured by German troops within the last few days, the chief commander of the Nazi forces in Norway announced today. It was said the men, whose names will be published, are to be treated as prisoners of war.

THE HAGUE, April 17 (AP)—Extraordinary military leaves were restored today, permitting men to be absent from active duty to visit sick relatives and take student examinations. Periodic leaves of absence, which were cancelled April 9 after the German invasion of Denmark and Norway, will still be withheld.

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—Thirty foreign vessels, including 14 Norwegian, seven Danish and six Swedish, are being held at British contraband control ports in view of the Scandinavian situation, the ministry of economic warfare announced today.

Norway Split Four Ways by Nazi Push

Norway Split Four Ways by Nazi Push

STOCKHOLM, April 17 (INS)—Splitting Norway into four sections, swiftly advancing German troops reached the Swedish frontier east of Kongsvinger, Trondheim and Riksgraensen today, bringing the Scandinavia campaign dangerously close to his nervously neutral land.

Reports to Stockholm which told of these advances also indicated the Germans had massed a tremendous air armada at Trondheim on the Norwegian west coast for a possible aerial drive against allied landing forces and British home bases.

(Editor's Note—A Norwegian military communique said Norwegian troops had attacked German detachments in southeastern Norway, with successful counter-attacks also carried out by ski troops at Lake Mjoesa. German parachute troops were annihilated or captured in attempted landings elsewhere, the statement said.)

German warplanes roared continuously from Denmark toward Trondheim. This led to belief that Germany, while gaining against dwindling Norwegian resistance in position to unleash her aerial strength against Britain from the Reich's newly acquired vantage points.

Capture of Kongsvinger, northeast of Oslo, was announced by Maj Backer, commander of German troops in that area. He said Norwegian resistance lacked organization and that only a small detachment had attempted defense of the city.

A special dispatch to the newspaper Dagens Nyheter reported that a German troop train arrived yesterday evening at the Swedish border station on the railway linking Trondheim and Storlein.

Three unarmed German officers left the train and informed the Swedish commander at the border that the Germans were now "protecting" the Norwegian section of the railway.

The train then left, the dispatch stated, but halted slightly more than a mile from the frontier, where the German forces remained.

South of Trondheim, the report stated, the Germans reached the Norwegian town of Stoeren despite resistance from Norwegians who blew up a bridge at nearby Lundamo only one minute before the German transport column arrived.

NORSE RADIO SILENCED

The Norwegian government radio station at Vigra, south of Trondheim, was silenced while broadcasting a warning of a bombing attack, the dispatch added. At the same time, the town of Molde was bombed.

Save for Swedish radio broadcasts, according to information in Stockholm, the Norwegian people have no means of knowing the true position of Norway in the fighting.

King Haakon, according to these advices, is unable to make contact with the people by radio or otherwise and the Nygaardsvold government is in the same plight.

Fort Hegra at St. Jorundalen in Trondheim district is still held by the Norwegians, it was reported, but a German troop train was able to pass in front of the fort directly under the line of fire of its guns. False information that the train carried Norwegian troops was believed responsible for this.

At Lada, near Trondheim, the Germans established a new airdrome at a point where two German planes were shot down by Norwegian guns earlier in the conflict.

German authorities were quoted as stating that if "Fort Hegra is not bombed today, it will be bombed tomorrow."

NAZI NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

Immediately after the occupation of Trondheim, the Germans sent negotiators to the fort, but apparently their efforts were without result.

All day yesterday the guns of the fort were in action, it was reported.

Experts in Stockholm considered the German expedition along the railway from Trondheim to the Swedish border bold but risky, pointing out the German forces may be cut off if the Norwegians succeed in advancing along the east side of Trondheim Fjord from Stonkjaer and Levanger, where a Norwegian division has been mobilized.

In that event, it was believed, the Germans might be trapped in a narrow valley near the Swedish frontier. Norwegian troops, however, have not yet appeared in the valley, according to latest advices.

Such reports estimated that only German troops are now holding the city of Trondheim.

Other dispatches revealed that 25 German soldiers, wounded in a skirmish at Bearfield along the Narvik railway, had arrived at a hospital in the Swedish iron ore town of Kiruna.

The skirmish was halted temporarily, according to these reports, when a group of Red Cross workers rescued one German both of whose legs had been shot off.

Five British warships are now in Narvik harbor, it was reported, while several more are anchored in the outer Fjord.

The German commander at Oslo issued a proclamation declaring that thousands of Norwegian officers and men had laid down their arms and should be treated as prisoners of war. He said all possible efforts would be made to provide them adequate food.

NORWAY'S STAND — As Nazi troops advance by special train from Trondheim to Skurudalvolden, which is three miles from Swedish border, Norwegian troops were reported still holding the fort at Hegra.

Allies Mass Troops For Big Norse Drive

LONDON, April 17 (AP)—The battle for Norway has developed into a race between Germany trying to consolidate positions in southern Norway and the Allies striving for sufficient strength in numbers and position to offer effective resistance.

The immediate German objective appears to be the mopping up and pacification of southern Norway, below the railway front German forces have taken across the middle of the country.

This mop-up would facilitate a German attempt to keep Allied expeditionary forces backed up in the bleak, mountainous region to the north, leaving the Germans in control of most of Norwegian industries which are centered in the south.

The Allied high command maintained the strictest secrecy on operations of British and French troops reported landed in Norway, but the Norwegian command has said they made contact with Norwegian forces and with them were in control of Narvik, far northern ore port, which was the outpost of German occupation.

ALLIED FORCES MASS

Apparently the Allied landings took place in the Narvik region.

Erik Andreas Colban, Norwegian minister to London, who talked with Prime Minister Chamberlain yesterday, was believed to have stressed the importance of immediate Allied help to Norwegians in southern Norway before Germany could solidify her hold on that region.

Norwegian quarters in London argued that this was the most important task for the Allies and that their ultimate objective must be recapture of Oslo, the Norwegian capital which is now occupied by German troops, because the city is the heart of Norwegian industry.

One third of the country's industrial facilities are concentrated at Oslo, Norway's largest port and railway center.

The British press, however, advised that immediate and spectacular results from the Allied expeditionary force should not be expected, and expressed the view that considerable time would be needed for organization of forces to deal an effective blow to the invaders.

CANADIANS LANDED

The newspapers pointed out that the swiftness of the German stroke—coupled with confusion and betrayal of the Norwegian defense had barred an effective mobilization of Norwegian forces, and that Allied forces must bear the brunt of the drive against the Germans.

The latest word on the expeditionary force came from the British Broadcasting Corporation which announced last night that it is "now officially confirmed" that Canadian, French and British troops are in Norway.

Severe fighting for control of the air over Norway was expected by military observers to precede any large scale clashes between Allied and German land forces.

Until the Allies can capture an air base, the German forces hold the advantage they won with the lightning invasion of Southern Norway April 9, when Stavanger and other airport cities were taken over.

Sweden Fears Soviet Move, Backs Finland

LONDON, April 17 (INS)—Gravely fearful of some new Soviet action against Finland, Sweden today promised her Baltic neighbor all possible help in event of aggression.

The promise was voiced to International News Service by an official Swedish spokesman in London. Sweden, which declined passage of Anglo-French troops to Finland in rigorous defense of her own neutrality, has found that a "dangerous new situation" has now arisen.

As a result, the spokesman declared, Sweden is determined to defend the national integrity of Finland as an essential measure of self-protection.

ing against any extension of the British blockade in the eastern Mediterranean.

(Editor's Note—Official British circles said that had no confirmation of the report and expressed doubt as to its authenticity.)

Italy also will protest against activities of the new Britain Balkan trading company, the Standard said.

In connection with the Evening Standard report, authoritative London quarters said there had been no extension of the blockade in the area mentioned and none is anticipated "unless cause is given."

The fact the Italian press today was more moderate in tone towards the Allies was noted here with considerable satisfaction, but the Mediterranean situation is still being closely watched.

Claim British Battleship Hit

troops for control of Narvik, in which a German naval commander and hundreds of Nazi seamen were killed, was officially admitted by the German high command.

Still denying that the British have taken the city, a military communique disclosed that Commodore Bonte, commander of the German naval forces at Narvik, had lost his life while defending the northern Norwegian port against allied invaders.

Commodore Bonte was regarded as one of the greatest experts on operation of destroyers. In the German navy since 1914—he was 54 at the time and the son of a German naval officer—Bonte was slated to receive the rank of admiral soon.

(An Associated Press bulletin from Berlin, quoted the official German news agency, DNB, as saying that British naval forces last evening heavily bombarded Navik city and port.)

ADMIT MANY LOSSES

Today's communique admitted the loss of one-third of the entire crews of German destroyers in Narvik harbor. The impression was given that all casualties were inflicted by British naval guns and that land fighting has not occurred.

German quarters claimed that a British transport had been severely bombed off the northern Norwegian coast.

The German high command admitted that the British have landed at Harstadt, an isolated point on the far northern Norwegian coast, but have not attempted landings near Narvik.

This means that the British and German land forces are approximately 50 miles apart as the crow flies and separated from one another by a maze of mountains, islands and fjords.

RUSH SUB BASES

While the Germans are concentrating along the iron ore railway line leading from Narvik to the Swedish frontier, Berlin information indicated that the British are establishing themselves in bays and islands in the Harstadt area preparatory to a slow push southward aimed at contact with the Swedish frontier as soon as possible.

According to German observers, the British tactics call for blockading the Germans in Narvik Bay, harrying them with naval fire while the Harstadt operations are in progress at the same time attacking Norwegian air bases with bombing planes.

Danish Ships in Hub To Escape British

Two steamers of Danish registry today were safe in Boston harbor in accordance with orders to skippers to put into neutral ports to escape capture by British patrols.

The vessels were the Rita Maersk and the Hertha Maersk. Both dropped anchor near another Danish ship, the Emma Mrsrsk.

Blockades by Britain Cut U. S. Foreign Trade

WASHINGTON, April 17 (AP)—Great Britain's blockades in the Atlantic and Pacific, coupled with President Roosevelt's extension of the combat area forbidden to American ships, have interrupted or hampered American foreign trade involving nearly $1,300,000,000.

Other wartime hazards and restrictions—the threat of German raiders, a Japanese blockade in the Far East, the "cash and carry" provisions of the neutrality act—boost the figures even higher.

Experts here estimate that more than half of the country's foreign trade has been either eliminated or affected. The 1939 foreign trade total was $3,177,344,135.

The combat area keeps American shipping from carrying goods to the country's principal market, Northern and Central Europe, where American exports totaled $1,172,948,023 last year.

5000 GET GAS BACK AGAIN

More than 5000 of the 13,000 customers of the Old Colony Gas Light Co., whose plant was the scene of a $1,000,000 explosion a week ago, had service restored today.

With 5000 meters again turned on, E. M. Farnsworth, president of the company, issued the following warning:

"It is most important that customers wait until a service man arrives to turn on the gas before attempting to use appliances. We ask them to be patient and assure them it will not be necessary to phone for service as 220 extra men are working to restore service promptly."

The service was restored as workmen completed installation of a new compressor and cut in lines from the Consolidated supply.

Gas users in Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Hull, Cohasset, Abington and Rockland were affected by the explosion, the cause of which is still being investigated by company and state officials.

Risks Life to Save New Auto Seized by Killers

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Pride in his new car led George Kologi, a slight, undersized bank bookkeeper, to risk his life twice in a succesful fight to save the vehicle from two men believed fleeing after a slaying.

Shortly after two men called Thomas Silvano, 22, bakery salesman, from a lunchroom a few blocks away and shot him to death, two armed men climbed into Kologi's car and told him to drive them away.

When he refused, they dragged him from the car, beat him with their gun butts and drove off. Kologi, still dazed, ran after them and leaped on the rear bumper.

Although two bullets were fired at him, Kologi managed to run around to the left of the car, grab its ignition key and escape.

Thef our men then hurriedly commandeered a car across the street and fled.

Kologi—his battered face and head covered with lumps—couldn't understand why police were puzzled at the scrap he had put up.

"Why, it was a new car!" he explained.

Doctors in Debate Over White Cross

The White Cross plan for pre-payment medical service was back in the limelight in Boston today after distinguished Boston physicians engaged in public debate on the issue.

In a special program before the Boston League of Women Voters at the Hotel Sheraton, Dr. Allan M. Butler charged that the American Medical Association had opposed all efforts of small groups to solve voluntarily the problem of high medical costs.

In opposition, Dr. E. W. R. Ohler, chief of staff at the Boston City Hospital, said he saw no need for such a service, but that if a need existed the plan should be directed by the medical society under control of the state commissioner of insurance.

Mrs. Maurice Sagoff, chairman of the League's economic welfare committee, criticized the cost, $45 for her family of three, and expressed belief the plan should serve people with incomes above the maximum limit of $3500.

Through her talks with doctors, she said, she found they oppose the plan principally because they fear a loss of business if it spreads.

Dr. Ohler declared high medical costs were created by specialists, not by the general practitioners whose aim, he said, was to keep their fees low. He especially objected to a clause in the White Cross plan which does not allow the patient a free choice of a physician.

Dr. Butler, on the other hand, described the state-wide plan suggested by Dr. Ohler as ill-controlled and socialistic. It is one under which the quality of medicine, obtained by the subscriber will not be protected and the physician's income would be jeopardized, he declared.

Dr. Dalton Head Of Vet Staff

Promotion of Dr. Stephen J. Dalton of Marion st., Brookline, to be chief of the general medical and surgical staff at the U. S. Veterans Bureau here has been announced by Col. William J. Blake.

Dr. Dalton, connected with the local bureau for the past 20 years and considered an outstanding authority on veteran medical affairs, succeeds Dr. Joseph A. Meledy, recently transferred to Washington, D. C.

Born in Marlboro, Dr. Dalton was graduated from Tufts College Medical School in 1916 and served in the World War as a first lieutenant with the U. S. Army Medical Corps in Puerto Rico.

MYSTERY IN TRACK BID HIT

RAYNHAM, April 17—Charging that mystery surrounds identity of the real backers of a proposed dog racing track in this town, church and civic groups here are prepared to fight the venture at a public hearing in Weonit Hall tomorrow night.

The hearing was called by selectmen of the town at request of Fred Murby, local restaurant proprietor and open air theater owner.

ASK CENTRAL SITE

Announcement of tomorrow night's public hearing was made through the medium of an advertisement in a Taunton newspaper. The advertisement was signed by Chairman Rogers of the Raynham Board of Selectmen.

Asked who the dog track license applicants were, Chairman Rogers said he didn't know but Fred Murby did.

Murby, in his turn, said all he knew was that a grocer in Taunton could call a cafe operator in the same town who in turn could call the proposed operators, whoever they might be, and get the men on the scene.

PASTORS LEAD FIGHT

Principal organizers of opposition to the proposed dog track today included Rev. L. C. Holton, pastor of the Congregational Church in Broadway and the Congregational Church in Raynham Center, and Rev. S. B. Chapman, pastor of the Baptist Church in East Raynham.

They say they don't know who the would be operators are—and don't care!

They and their church members are unequivocably opposed to the licensing of a dog track by any group of men, they assert.

Their fight against the track, they say will be on moral grounds, not on personal issues.

HUNT RUNNELLS' HUB GIRL FRIENDS

The widening probe of Maine's muddled finances and shortages reached into Boston today with Federal agents seeking to locate women known to be friendly with suspected officials.

It was learned that the women sought, all residents of a Boston suburb, were friends of William A. Runnells, 45, resigned Maine comptroller, whose accounts were found to be short $30,000.

At the same time, Federal authorities sought for questioning a Boston man who originally came from Maine, and his chauffeur. Both were said to have first hand knowledge of the financial tangle.

ASK SPECIAL SESSION

Meanwhile Maine legislators were still loud in their demands for a special legislative session although the Maine Supreme Court decided that Gov Barrows had the right to call off the session.

No sooner had the Republican governor announced that the session would be deferred until he had a "more detailed report" from private auditors than Senate President Sumner Sewall (R.) voiced belief the legislators should be "right now investigating matters not within the scope of the present audit."

From a non-political source came support of Sewall's insistence on an "immediate" session for enactment of remedial legislation. That, suggested Orren C. Hormell, Bowdoin College professor of government, should take the form of amendments to the administrative code which he helped draft.

The code created the state controllership, held until last week by Runnells, recused of embezzling part of a shortage in excess of $30,000.

SEEKS PROTECTIVE LAW

Hormell suggested in a prepared statement, specific prohibition against handling of any funds by the controller (the law now does not authorize such procedure) and the necessity of prescribing by law the forms of state vouchers, bills, and receipts, now fixed by the controller.

Everett W. Downs, 40, Dover-Foxcroft bank treasurer, took over the deputy state treasurership formerly held by Louis H. Winship, who with State Auditor Elbert D. Hayford was forced to resign by Barrows for "inefficiency" in failing to detect Runnells' "manipulations."

With Barrows predicting that fresh developments "may follow in rapid succession," the attorney general's investigatory staff reported that bank accounts of several present and former state officials were being scrutinized.

HALLER GUEST AT HARVARD

Gen. Joseph Haller, Polish World War hero and minister-at-large for the provisional Polish government now at Angers, France, visited President James B. Conant of Harvard University and Cardinal O'Connell in Brighton today.

Gen. Haller, 67-year-old, thrice-wounded representative of dismembered Poland, is here on a two-day visit explaining to people of Polish descent or sympathy the story of his country's downfall.

GREETED AT HARVARD

At Massachusetts Hall, Harvard, Gen. Halley was met by a delegation of Harvard officers headed by President Conant, and by representatives of the women's auxiliary of American Legion post 37, South Boston.

The general, accompanied by his aide, Janusz Stamirowski, talked with the president of Harvard for about 15 minutes, then left in a six-car cavalcade escorted by two Cambridge motorcycle police.

At Cambridge city hall, Gen. Haller was greeted by Mayor John W. Lyons and other city officials and presented with two copies of the history of Cambridge.

He then left for Cardinal O'Connell's home.

WILL SPEAK TONIGHT

Highlight of the general's visit is to come tonight when he will speak before an estimated audience of 3500 at the Hotel Bradford.

On his first day in Boston, featured by a tour of the city and official greetings by Governor Saltonstall and Mayor Tobin, he told how Poland had been prepared for defeat by the "infiltration" of spies and saboteurs before the war began last September.

He predicted the eventual defeat of Germany and the resurrection of Poland.

6 Months to Pay $21.42 Court Costs

PORTLAND, Me., April 17—Hilley C. Manchester, 51, unemployed for two years, today had six months to pay $21.42 fines and court costs for the larceny of two quarts of milk valued at 28 cents.

Time to pay was granted by Judge Robert W. Dewolfe after Manchester's attorney outlined his previous good record and cited a string of misfortunes which had dogged him.

Our Fight's In Baseball

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

When it's apple blossom time in Normandy we'll be whacking that old apple over here.

There's plenty of fight but no war in baseball. Many years ago Frank Munsey ordered the baseball editions of his New York paper discontinued because he didn't like bulges in his circulation chart.

And many years ago a mob of five hundred crashed the locker room where a little man was bent over trying to untie a shoe-lace. The little man said, "I can lick anybody in the room and I ain't even looked up yet." It was John McGraw.

Sears Roebuck Aids Workers

Employes of Sears Roebuck & Co.'s Boston storse learned today they are $306,360 richer than they were a year ago.

The financial gain was increased holdings in the Savings and Profit Sharing Pension Fund of Sears Roebuck employes.

Directors of the fund made their annual report and distributed individual profit sharing statements.

Local members of the Sears organization now have to their credit 21,519 shares of stock, with a market value of 1,721,520, according to figures furnished by C. A. Woods and A. H. Rogow, mail order general manager and retail group manager, respectively, in this area.

Dudley Man Bailed In Webster Drowning

SOUTHBRIDGE, April 17 (AP) —Henry Forand, 25, of Dudley was released in $2000 bail today after arraignment before Judge L. O. Rieutord on a charge of manslaughter and assault in connection with the death Monday of Charles Ozrech, 54, in Webster. He will appear in Webster court next Tuesday.

Forand, a truck driver, is charged with assaulting Ozrech, who fell into the Maanexit river in Webster and drowned.

2-Alarm Blaze In N. Weymouth

One summer cottage was destroyed another damaged and a whole colony saved only by a water stream when fire was discovered today in the Wessagusett Beach colony, North Weymouth.

The spectacular two-alarm blaze that attracted many motorists did $3500 damage to the cottage of Louis Lee of Everett and some damage to another owned by Frank Shinney of Medford, Fire Chief Timothy McCarthy said.

None of the cottages were occupied.

Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo Opens 5-Day Engagement

Smart Audience Sits Spellbound

By PEGGY DOYLE

The Boston Opera House was a Valhalla for the balletomanes last night, when the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo returned to Boston for a five-day engagement.

A program with Baronova, Markova, Danilova, Slavenska, Maseine and Youskevitch, is nothing less than ambrosia nectar, a repast fit for the gods. Our only regret was the absence of Tamara Toumanava and David Lichine

The classical "Lac des Cygnes" was the opening ballet, and with its dreamy, spellbinding music, with Baronova as the Princess Swan, the mesmerized audience sat forward, tense under the spell.

It is essentially a prima ballerina role, and Baronova makes a lovely, regal Queen Swan. We were greatly pleased to see that Hollywood has not subdued her unusual dancing technique, nor has it lustered her luminous miming ability.

Arnold Haskell has called her the supreme Russian classical dancer, and she verified this last night.

Alexandra Danilova was warmly welcomed at her entrance in "Devil's Holiday's," the last ballerina of the Diaghileff company. Although still young, she recalls the ballerinas of yesterday to one's mind more readily than any other dancer of today with the single exception of Markova

Her glorious body, supple and well trained, combined with her smiling miming, made a rather dull ballet a personal success. Frederic Franklin was an engaging beggar.

There were two climaxes in the course of the evening. The first the long awaited entrance of Alice Markova in "Oiseau Bleu."

This fragment of the "Sleeping Princess" is the Spartan test of all ballerinas, and Markova with the greatest of ease and grace makes it look all to easy. This young dancer, who reminds one of Pavlova, in face, figure and unearthliness, flew across the stage, intangible, ethereal, and for a too short time, dazzled all with her virtuosity.

The final ballet shares honors with one of the soloists. "Capriccio Espagnol" is a stirring massine Ballet, gloriously danced by Mia Slavenska, whom you all remember in the French film "Ballerina."

Her personal performance was an eloquent, fiery one, and one forgot for the moment her haunting beauty, in watching the story her magnificently taut legs told.

JOAN CRAWFORD in "Strange Cargo" which is holding over a second week at Loew's State and Orpheum.

'The Housekeeper's Daughter' at Bowdoin

"The Housekeeper's Daughter," film version of Donald Henderson Clarke's best-seller co-starring Joan Bennett in her Hedy Lamarr wig and Adolphe Menjou in his most suave mood, opens today on the Bowdoin Square screen.

With it will be shown "Parole Fixer," based on J. Edgar Hoover's story, "Persons in Hiding." The latter picture features Anthony Quinn, Ellen Drew, John Paine and William Henry.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 17 -No producer is more intrigued with social problems than Darryl Zanuck, so get ready for another "Grapes of Wrath" shocker when he screens "Ladies of the Road," Dana Burnet's original story. The Burnet yarn is based on actual government records of the 50,000 girls between 16 and 23 years of age who roam the roads, ride the rails and hitch-hike from one end of the country to the other

Most of these young lady hoboes, again according to Uncle Sam, leave their homes because of impossible living conditions—and they get so used to freedom that it is difficult to get them into schools or homes. In addition to "Ladies of the Road," Darryl is also readying "How Green Was My Valley," another problem opus about the coal fields of Wales.

FOLIES BERGERE DANCING STAR HEADS NEW GLOBE BILL

Mayita Queen Of Strip Tease

Mayita, whose strip-tease has proved to be attention-getting even in war-minded Fleet street, is due to open a week's engagement at the Globe Burlesque Theater at tomorrow night's special midnight show.

When the world was at peace and Paris was a synonym for gaiety and abandon, Mayita was a four-star attraction in the "Folies Bergere." From there, she went to London's Prince of Wales Theater, where the reverberations of her sensational dances even shook the calm of Parliament.

Her Continental dance repertoire has been enhanced by a group of daring dance creations that will be seen for the first time at tomorrow's Patriot's Day eve midnight show.

Supporting the magnetic Mayita are a bevy of beauties including Marie Voe, Patricia Cornell, Louise Rogers and, of course, the 30 Bernardolls.

But even glamour must make way for comedy on the well-balanced Globe bills and this week the featured comics will be Harry J. Conley and Harry Clex, aided by Parker Gee, Harry Ryan and Billy Fields.

Other acts are the Six Men of Melody, a new singing ensemble with Julie Starr, Hale and Perry, and the Catch-as-Catch-Can revelers from Montmartre.

Two feature attractions top the screen program which also boasts the latest newsreels and comedy shorts.

As an added attraction at tomorrow night's concluding performance of this week's revue, there will be an amusing amateur radio audition.

Belgian Angle—With England able to send more and more troops to Norway, Germany faces the need of a new theater of war to occupy Allied troops . . . and eyes Belgium, key to Northern France. Belgium, in fear, massases troops at strategic spots . . . troops like these. Now, left . . . below . . .

Canals of War—Linked to the Belgian version of the Maginot Line, the Albert Canal will offer a tremendous hazard to German troops . . . may, on the basis of Allied strategy, successfully block the Nazi advance for days.

Cities Armed—Another angle of the Belgian defense are the fortified cities . . . and here you are looking along the street of a Belgian border town from a machine-gun port . . . part of the defense line.

Oil Angle

Expected to supply Germany with needed oil, Rumania now has shut off the flow of such fields as this in Campina . . . creating a shortage that demands German action.

Italian Angle—Because of warlike statements by Fascist leaders and a simultaneous quickening of action on the part of the military, Italy today becomes a question mark in the European war . . . as more ships concentrate at Naples [above] and near the strategic Dardanelles.

Swedish

Day by day, war grows closer to Sweden . . . with machine-gunners, like these, downing one Nazi plane . . . with Nazi troops firing over the Norwegian border at Swedes . . . and apologizing.

EVENING AMERICAN, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, 1940

MASSACHUSETTS is an old commonwealth—one of the very oldest, and precedent is necessarily powerful in all our institutions.

We hold affectionately to the customs of yesterday, particularly those that have withstood the test of time.

But, despite our age and attachment for the good things of the past, we are by no stretch of the imagination New World counterparts of the ancestor-worshiping Chinese.

We are FORWARD-MOVING Americans, attuned in thought and spirit to the needs and demands of the Twentieth Century.

We are practical enough to know that a ceremony which might have inspired the utmost reverence in audiences a century ago may have an entirely different effect on modern listeners.

We find convincing proof of this important fact in the mirth that so frequently follows the appearance of the gavel-pounding bailiff in our courts and the utterance of his almost ludicrous cry:

"Oyez, Oyez!" Mumble, Mumble, Mumble—WHACK! BANG!

And now, judging from the favorable public response to this newspaper's April eighth editorial criticizing this out-moded judicial ceremony, we as a people are prepared to substitute something more impressively American.

From the courtroom of Superior Judge Myron Westover in California comes a formula that speaks admirably for itself.

No "Oyez! Oyez!" or unintelligible mumbling, mutterings or frenzied rappings are heard when Judge Westover presides. Instead, the bailiff taps gently with his gavel and says:

"All stand, please, and face the Flag of our country, which is the emblem of our Constitutional form of government."

Our patriotic duty is simply to BORROW these well-chosen words and have them REPEATED whenever a judicial trial or hearing is begun in Massachusetts.

We have made commendable efforts to give the Flag and the Constitution proper attention and respect in our homes, clubs, fraternal organizations, schools and churches.

A demonstration of the same love and loyalty is EQUALLY NECESSARY in our halls of justice and surely more worth while than the moth-eaten, "Oyez! Oyez!" or "Hear Ye!" performance which might be funny in a Gilbert and Sullivan opera.

THE MEN WHO WENT overseas in 1917-18 to "Make the World Safe for Democracy" are those best advised and informed on how to KEEP AMERICA SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY.

Veterans' organizations no longer have any illusion about "Making the World Safe for Democracy"—that grandiloquent illusion of Woodrow Wilson which peopled northern France with white crosses above our dead.

The keynote of the "Aims for 1940" of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, a pamphlet just issued, contains this significant caption: "TO PRESERVE AMERICANISM!"

"By Americanism we mean," says the pamphlet, "principles and institutions peculiarly American. By Americanism we mean a personal willingness on the part of EVERY AMERICAN CITIZEN to help perpetuate Americanism in all its phases.

"America's greatest dangers today lie INSIDE, not outside, our borders. America's democracy will survive so long as it is the form of government most desired by a majority of American citizens. American institutions will prevail so long as they continue to embody the principles most desired by a majority of American citizens.

"The basic freedoms guaranteed by our Constitution and Bill of Rights will continue to be ours and our children's just so long—and no longer—as they fulfil the greatest desires of a majority of American citizens."

In 1917-18 we went abroad to make democracy safe and we nearly lost it at home, and history will repeat itself with a vengeance if we go abroad again to make democracy safe in a part of the world where it no longer exists—Europe.

MOTHER AT SOLDIER SON'S GRAVE
Let Us Not Sacrifice Other Sons and Break More Mothers' Hearts

There is only ONE ISSUE in this country—TRUE AMERICANISM.

True Americanism can be insured only by the maintenance of our Constitutional rights and form of government and by keeping out of Europe's wars.

THE 1930 census referred not to "housewives" but to "home-makers." A home-maker was defined as "the woman member of the family responsible for the care of the home and the family." It was also stated in 1930 that a "hired house-keeper" did not rate the title of home-maker . . . Sixty per cent of married women who are college graduates have no children. My source of information advances no explanation of this surprising state of affairs. Do you know how much you should weigh for your height and age? You should. Just weighed and find I am 11 pounds overweight. Taking off 11 pounds is easy. Just eat less and walk more. It never fails.

DO YOU KNOW of any happy marriages of tall young women and short young men? A young woman who loves an undersized gentleman has sent in a pathetic poem which starts:

I am five foot eleven
He is five foot seven
Alas! Also alack-a-day,
Why couldn't it have been the other way.

ONLY THE RICH can now afford to order a la carte. My suspicions are the a la carte prices are made high so the clientele will be forced to take the regular dinner. A form of regimentation. I'm against it . . . "Dogs never go mad in winter" I heard a fellow say. Isn't it a fact more dogs go mad in Winter and Spring than do in Summer? . . . Too many cocktail bars are being opened. I think a bar specializing in ice cream soda, fruit juices and milk would make a lot of money.

RUTH ST. DENIS, WORLD-FAMOUS DANCER
Attributes Health and Vitality to Early Rising

REMEMBER RUTH St. Denis? At fifty-eight Ruth, who looks 40, is dancing as much as ever. Says she owes her schoolgirl complexion and figure to fact she gets up at 7 a. m. and takes setting-up exercises and a cold shower. Not a bad idea, except the getting up at 7 a. m. I think when I get up at 9 a. m. I will take setting up exercises. My schoolboy figure was 6 feet 2 inches tall, weight 188 pounds.

THE CRACK-POT pension planners are in again in California. This time they plan to give $20 a week to every person over 50 in the State. Latest figures reveal 1,160,455 Californians over 50. This is more than one-sixth of the population. Best remark of 1939 on wild and wooly pension plans was Bugs Baer's: "The crackpots don't know where the money is coming from and we don't know where the crackpots are coming from."

A U. S. SENATOR gets 20 cents a mile for traveling expenses. Anybody can travel from Washington, D. C., to the Pacific Coast in luxury for $200, but a Senator is allowed about $600 for this trip. A good start on the next budget balancing effort would be to cut Senators down to 10 cents a mile for travelling expenses.

-:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17 —Here I am back in Washington! After I had filed my column yesterday in Chattanooga, Tenn., I started on a busy day. Judge Cummings would have liked to take me to see a rural school in North Georgia about which I had written him, and which he feels needs help. Fortunately, the "save the children fund" in New York city, which is interested in mountain children, on hearing the difficulties of some of these rural schools, collected desks from all over the country and distributed them to many of these schools where they had none at all, or an insufficient number.

In spite of my interest, I felt that, having come for the Southern conference for human welfare, I should attend that. So, Dr. Louise Charlton took me to the afternoon session, which was on "The Industrial South." I heard ex-Senator Pope give a most interesting account of what the Tennessee Valley Authority had meant to the industrial development of the region.

INCIDENTALLY, this has meant a good deal to the agricultural development, too, for I was told the story of a woman of 65 who came to town to announce to her friends that the rural electrification project had reached her home and that for the first time in her life she had an opportunity really to lighten the homework which she had done for so many years.

MRS. ROOSEVELT
Sees TVA Benefits

She said that she was going to buy every gadget possible and had already invested in an iron and a refrigerator and added that: "If they have something which will milk the cows by electricity, some day I'm going to have that, too."

So, on every hand in this area, the TVA has meant a great deal.

AFTER SENATOR POPE, Mr. Clark, who is an industrial adviser from Cleveland, Ohio, but who works with many firms in the South, gave a most interesting talk. He furnished me with some figures which I shall have to verify to make sure that I understand him correctly, for if I do, there is no question but what industry could well afford to help the youth of this nation to adjust itself to the proper jobs.

He feels that much of the turnover in industry today is due to the fact that workers are not in the jobs which they are really fitted to perform, and he gave figures of the cost to industry of this maladjustment.

IN THE EVENING I spoke on the panel which discussed children from the viewpoint of health and education, but I was only able to stay for part of the evening because the eastern seaboard had foggy weather conditions and the airline decided that I had better leave from Nashville and tour the country on my way East, if I expected to arrive here this morning. I arrived in time to keep the day's engagements.

LOTHIAN SCOFFS AT WAR STORIES

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 17—Marlene Dietrich: UFA, the German film company which once employed you, has a representative now in N. Y., offering to sell the remake rights to all its famous movies, because Germany needs this foreign exchange. Negotiations are now proceeding with United Artists . . . Ethel Barrymore: Your daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, will open a singing engagement at Mon Paris next week . . . Cordell Hull: The British announced that Hitler's moves in Scandinavia were anticipated. But when Lord Lothian was shown the headlines reporting the invasion of Norway and Denmark, the British Ambassador told his guests: "Bah. That's just paper talk."

* * *

DEANNA DURBIN

ROBERT E. SHERWOOD: John Garfield is very much interested in your movement to inaugurate a National Theater. When he was in Washington recently, he spoke to Senators Pepper, Wagner and Barkley—who assured him that hope for the establishment of a National Theater rested only with Garner. The three Senators finally arranged a luncheon date with the Vice-President . . . Between courses, Garfield broached the subject, and mentioned a National Theater. Garner remained silent, and so the actor began again and asked: "Haven't you heard about a National Theater? . . . "National Theater?" replied the Vice-President. "Never heard of it."

* * *

GEORGE ABBOTT: La Conga's Desi Arnez, who is appearing in "Too Many Girls," was signed by RKO to appear in your movie version of the show. His film contract contains a clause which forbids his marriage until the expiration of the five-year term of the contract. It now appears that Arnaz will be married even before the movie goes into production . . . Deanna Durbin: Your next movie, "Spring Parade," will be a story of Vienna before and after Anschluss.

* * *

PAUL V. McNUTT: When Senator Burton K. Wheeler lectured in Akron recently, he submitted to off-the-record questioning by newspaper men, concerning the Presidential candidates . . . Wheeler told them frankly what he thought of you and every other candidate now in the field. When he departed, the reporters tabulated the list of candidates mentioned. Wheeler had rated every one of them unsuited for the Presidency, leaving the only candidate he didn't mention—himself.

* * *

MAYOR LaGUARDIA: A new independent film company will start production at the Paramount Studios here. The picture will be "Mr. Park of Park Avenue." The producers insist they'll get Rosalind Russell, Robert Young and Alan Mowbray . . . Max Baer: Tony Galento, who'll fight you next month, stopped at St. Joe, Mo., on his tour last week, and was introduced to Jim Farley there. Tony learned that Farley is seeking the Presidency. "Don't worry, my Tony Galento Organization will elect you," he assured . . . "How many voters in your organization?" asked Farley . . . "Enough to elect you," Galento informed. "Twelve hundred."

EXCLUSIVE: One toast that is NOT being proposed at the Harvard Club these days is: "To the ladies, God bless 'em!" . . . And that s a familiar enough toast, ordinarily, in any club reserved for males . . . Seldom—if ever—in the Commonwealth Avenue club's history has a matter of policy so disturbed the membership as this bothersome issue of let-the-ladies-in, or keep-'em-out—which? . . . (There's a sentence for the Harvard boys to parse—or pass, parse and pass being pronounced, in the H-Club, the same way.)

THE CLUB ANNOUNCED recently that one part of the clubhouse would be reserved for the gals—debs, matrons, dowagers, sisters, sweethearts or wives . . The resolution was a broad one, and definitely threw open the doors to "ladies" . . . Well, there are "antis" and "pros" of the issue already and acrimony actually has reared its ugly head . . . At first the boys were jolly on the subject—although they were disagreeing with such good-humored spirit that the situation (—from this column's standpoint—) loomed as promising . . Then they were cool in patches.

PRESENTLY SOME OF THE LADS weren't speaking to the opposition, and vice versa . . . Then the cleavage became so sharply defined that the regrettable business became an "issue" . . . Now? . . . Now—a number of members have threatened to resign unless the club renounces its intention of lifting the sex barriers . . . If all this sounds like an incredible situation to be disturbing the leather-and-marble atmosphere of the hallowed halls of the Harvard Club (which is staffed by waitresses, by the way,) we are helpless in the face of disbelief . . . We know it's the truth, and that the club may reverse its position, i. e., "No Ladies!" . . . (God Bless 'em!)

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Joe E. Lewis, this column's nominee as the funniest man of 1940, (as he was in 1939,) has a new story to words and music of a hapless bridegroom who couldn't get into the hall where the wedding was being celebrated . . . For this week only, Mr. Lewis is at the Mayfair, and he won't be back this way before the President has fought it out with Mr. Dewey at the polls . . . With Ranny Weeks making the music, the Mayfair's show is the strongest since Mickey Redstone took over the Mayfair . . . And since long before that, for that matter.

KITTY BRANDO'S UPSET of the dope—which rates running a successful nightclub alongside such longshot hazards as picking the winner of an eighth race—was no flash in the pan . . . As proprietor of Kitty Brando's, Kitty Brando gives another demonstration this week of how to be a winner in the cabaret business . . . She gives her customers (in addition to Maestro Joseph "Love Eyes" Candullo's good orchestra) a grand show . . . Helen Fay, a virtuoso of the fiddle, is the excellent "next-to-closing" act.

AN ADAGIO TRIO, the Pastines and Fanchon, furnishes some amazing tricks, and adds the element of surprise when one of them—a Pastine or Fanchon (and are they ever going to identify these trios by individuals?)—steps out and does a single-turn consisting of spins a la Gloria Gilbert which are marvellous . . . This is all against custom, tradition and possibly the ethics of adagio-dancing, whose exponents are supposed to sail through the air with the greatest of ease—but always in

ROLE IN 'VIRGINIA' CALLS HIM BACK

By Louella O. Parsons

Franchot Tone

HOLLYWOOD, April 17—I couldn't help feeling that the success of "Fifth Column" on the New York stage was due more to Franchot Tone's charm than to Ernest Hemingway's play. Certainly Hemingway gives us a rather dreary account of the Spanish conflict with far too many cuss words and not the sort of entertainment the average theater-goer would seek. But Franchot is such a swell actor and is so likeable that the women flock to the theater just to see him.

When I talked with Franchot there was no thought in his mind of leaving the play but today I heard on the Paramount lot that Mike Levee had agented a deal for Tone to do "Virginia." He comes here the end of the month to co-star with blonde Madeleine Carroll who, by the way, has rid herself of some of that superfluous weight. E. H. Griffith, who will produce and direct, is getting ready to call the roll June 3 and little Carolyn Lee will also be among those present.

JUNE KNIGHT

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Broderick Crawford is in the hospital for a nose operation; June Knight and her Texas bridegroom dining at the Beverly Derby; Steffi Duna and Dennis O'Keefe are aflame; Elsa Maxwell entertained at luncheon for H. R. Knickerbocker, famous International News Service correspondent today and he is certainly the most interesting man who has visited Hollywood in many a day. The luncheon was on the 20th Century-Fox lot where Elsa is emoting; Walter Pidgeon is fighting the flu. So "Nick Carter" is being shot around him—and no pun intended: Joan Crawford took off for New York tonight a few hours after her final divorce decree was granted; Ruth Selwyn and Richard Gully dining tete-a-tete at Ciro's. They acted much as they did a few months ago when their romance was so hectic; Phyllis Brooks has added ten pounds and looks marvelous; the Jules Steins entertaining Leopold Stokowski and Benny Goodman who will unite in a benefit concert in May; Greta Garbo and Gaylord Hauser listening to the Hungarian music at Little Hungary—a duet who appear so frequently in public these days that it is no longer news, and excites little notice.

* * *

WHEN KATHARINE HEPBURN comes here in July to star in "The Philadelphia Story," MGM will see that she has a gold-plated cast. There will be names to help Katie get back in favor with the fickle public and a production that will leave nothing to be desired. Clark Gable and Robert Taylor are both to co-star with La Hepburn just to give the movie a box office assurance. It will be interesting to see if Katie overcomes Harry Brandt's "Poison at the Box Office" article. She certainly did well on the stage and she may be the next one to show Mr. Brandt how foolish was his article.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

BETTY GRAY met Dolly Smith for dinner most evenings, because Dolly knew everything that was going on around town. Now Dolly was talking a blue streak.

". . . and when he didn't come to bed, she looked all over for him, and where do you think he was? In the cellar, with the clothes line 'round his neck—dead!"

It had been in the papers: Mr. James Lockhart Craig, model husband, respected resident and prominent business man, a suicide.

BETTY ASKED: "Wasn't she the model wife, noted for her kindness?"

"That's the one—she never even turned away a stray cat.

"And four dogs—too sweet the way she trained them to sit at the table at meal times—those pets had their food before anyone else ate.

"And that house—clean as a new pin. I guess she didn't allow smoking in the house."

DOLLY SIPPED her tea. "She'd put sweaters on all the pets and he'd take them out exercising. He'd stay in with them too, when she went to meetings.

"It was a show to see those cats go to bed nights with their tails in the air—couldn't race up the stairs fast enough.

"Three of them slept with her, and three with him, and of course the dogs had their baskets there, too. Everything was kept apple pie though.

"He'd let them out nights and all hours . . . I wonder why he DID kill himself?"

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

THERE'S a white star burning like a pale torch over the dark horizon tonight. And I'm feeling how many of you will be watching that same star with weariness and bewilderment, doubt and anger, with aging terror and despair. Suddenly the space between us crumbles, for I'm holding you close, so close.

And I'm thanking God for all the mistakes I've made—and the failures I've faced—and the grief I've had to drink to the bitter dregs. For it has brought me this hour—that I can come near to you . . . that I can share all I am—and am not—in this hour before the dawn with the other watchers through the night.

Tears on my face? Of course there are. But they're glad tears—for there's a song singing through. The oldest, the simplest, but the most precious song on earth. Three words only there are to it, but those three words have wrought more miracles than all the wealth and power and fury man ever knew. And they run like this, those words—I love you!

"BUT HOW," perhaps you'll be saying, "can you love me whom you've never seen? Or how can I love you whom I may never know?"

But what has seeing to do with it, my dear, if we've eaten the same and drunk the same wine and followed the same hard trail?

Love isn't seeing.

IT LIES IN THE EAGER HEART—IN THE FRIENDLY, SEEKING SPIRIT—IN THE SERVING SOUL.

OVER THE HILL the dawn comes stepping down. The night has gone. The thought of you has chased away the shadows. I love you, dear! Write to me, to comfort me against the other nights.

YOUR ELSIE.

THOSE GRACEFUL, pirouetting bits of fluff with the ponderous gutteral names, the dancers of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, are back in our midst . . . giving society a worthy cause for which to appear night after night in all the elegance of rich silks and flashing jewels usually seen only during opera week . . .

The opening performance at the Opera House last evening was an auspicious occasion . . . with a sellout for the benefit of the Burroughs Newsboys Foundation . . . Applauding, and then some, for the two new ballets, Devil's Holiday and Capriccio Espagnol, which had their Boston debut, were many of society's most ardent dance fans . . . Peggy Parker, leading ballerina of Vincent Club shows, and Cynthia Sortwell, who has also danced in public, appreciated the brilliance and intricacy of the solos as much as anyone in the audience . . . Cynthia chatted with friends during intermission, attracting many admiring glances with her gown of flame silk jersey, made with a gathered skirt, long tight sleeves and turquoise blue beading on the front . . .

Silver ornaments and a beautiful rope of pearls added a lavish touch to Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby's violet crepe gown which had little shirred cap sleeves . . . Jean Gordon's long blonde hair which is worn in a knot at the back of her neck, was encircled by a blue and gold tiara, and her white crepe gown had a matching cape which tied on under her chin . . .

A bevy of post debs and young marrieds did such a rushing business selling flowers to help the cause along that practically everyone, even the men, added gardenias to their costumes . . . Olive Perry, looking very pretty in a white organza gown with contrasting black velvet shoulder straps, sold a cluster of gardenias to Mr. Francis Hastings, who presented them to his daughter, Mary . . . Mary incidentally, wore her white silk jersey gown with the wide crimson sash which some of her friends call her Valentine dress . . .

Mrs. Lincoln Davis, Jr., was as patriotic as the Star Spangled Banner in a bright blue taffeta gown with red and white carnations tucked in her blonde hair and at the V of her dress . . . Mr. and Mrs. Maximillian Agassiz, generous contributors to many worthy causes, came up from Newport and entered into the spirit of the occasion with their stylish outfits . . . everything from top hat to ermine coat . . .

Mrs. Oscar Haussermann and Mrs. William B. Long, co-chairmen of the benefit committee, enjoyed the satisfaction of seeing their efforts rewarded with a full house . . .Mrs. Basil Gavin, keeping a watchful eye on her flower vendors, was a summery picture in coral slipper satin with a beige ermine jacket . . .

The pageant on this side of the footlights rivalled in splendor the brilliance of the Venetian carnival scene in Devil's Holiday . . . a riotous and gay climax to the tuneful and peppy ballet with a story concerning the Devil's satanic pleasure at separating two lovers . . .

Blonde Mrs. Edward Francis wore coral taffeta with a billowy tulle skirt . . . Lavish red embroidery trimmed the jacket of Mrs. Alfred M. Hallowell's white crepe dinner gown and her necklace was of large red beads the size of cherries . . .

Gerry Paine, who waltzes and polkas to his heart's content at Beantown waltzing parties, sat back and watched the ballerinas and dancers performing their graceful gyrations . . . Dwight Robinson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. Richard Ward, Jr., in a cunning nautical evening dress made of white with a fitted blue flannel jacket and red star buttons; Mrs. Alan Forbes with her daughter, Phyllis, Nancy Meyer, the Malcolm B. Frenches, Mrs. Frederic Winthrop with her North Shore neighbor, Mrs. James Reynolds, and Mary Ellis, in a filmy green chiffon gown, were others enjoying the evening . . .

Still others in the distinguished audience were Mrs. David Evans, with her daughter Lydia, who wore a rustling gold taffeta bustle gown under a long violet tweed cape; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wheeler, ARTIST HANGS HER PICTURE . . . Elizabeth Reece, getting ready for the members' exhibition which opens at the Junior League today, arranges her portrait of her little niece in an advantageous position with the hope that it will attract the attention of the judges. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Reece of Chestnut Hill.

For That Spring Tonic

By MARTHA LEE

"THAT TIRED FEELING" in springtime is sometimes more than imaginary. There is often a real cause which calls for some sort of remedy. Grandmother thought the cure consisted of doses of sulphur and molasses or some other spring tonic. In light of our newer knowledge of nutrition, we now understand that the right food is important in giving us back our energy and sense of well being when we seem to have lost them.

IRON IMPORTANT

One of the food elements which may be lacking in our diet is iron, essential to the formation of good red blood. Lean meat is a valuable source of iron, as well as of copper, which aids in the utilization of iron. Richest of food sources of these minerals is liver.

Liver is easy to prepare. It can be sliced and broiled or braised. In a large piece, it is braised. It can be ground or chopped and broiled in patties or it can be baked in a loaf. Liver can also be combined with other foods to make a variety of tempting dishes.

Here are recipes for tempting liver dishes. You will find that they are appetizing as well as highly beneficial for children or adults.

LIVER ROLLS WITH SAUSAGE STUFFING

6 large slices liver
6 to 8 links coked pork sausage
1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 small onion, grated
½ cup hot water
Salt
Pepper
6 slices bacon

Pour hot water over the liver slices. Sausage left over from breakfast may be cut into pieces for sausage stuffing. If no cooked sausage is on hand, brown and partially cook the sausage first. Combine with bread crumbs. Season with grated onion, salt and pepper and moisten with hot water. Pile a teaspoonful of bread dressing on each of the scalded liver slices. Roll and wrap a slice of bacon around the outside. Fasten the ends with toothpicks. Place in a baking dish. Add one-half cup hot water, cover and cook slowly in a moderate oven for 45 minutes. Remove the cover during the last 15 minutes in order to brown the bacon.

Another tasty liver dish which is quite out of the ordinary but very delicious is liver chow mein. This dish is a variation of the ever-popular Chinese dish of the same name.

LIVER CHOW MEIN

1½ lbs. sliced liver
2 tbsp. lard
1 cup diced celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
1 can Chinese vegetables
6 tbsp. cornstarch
3 tbsp. brown sauce
2 tbsp. soy sauce
Salt and pepper

Dice liver and brown in hot lard. Add celery, green pepper and tomatoes and allow to simmer for about 20 minutes. Add drained Chinese vegetables. When heated through, thicken with cornstarch blended with brown sauce and soy sauce and enough water to make pouring consistency. Season to taste. Serve on Chinese noodles.

LARDED LIVER AND VEGETABLES

2 lbs. liver
Fat salt pork
½ lb. lean salt pork
2 cups boiling water
1 cup sliced carrots
½ cup sliced onion
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
Bit of bay leaf
Small sprig of thyme

Buy liver in solid piece, wash thoroughly, dry and lard with strips of fat pork. Cut lean salt pork in pieces and try out slightly; add liver and brown on all sides. Add hot water, vegetables and seasonings, cover and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until liver is tender, or about 1 hour for veal liver and 2 hours for beef liver. Place liver on hot platter with vegetables around it. Makes 8 servings.

Condolence Call

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My husband and I called at a home where the husband had just passed away. Since my husband and I were unable to go to the funeral, we went the day before the funeral, to offer our sympathy.

As we were leaving I explained that we could not come to the funeral and had, therefore, called that day to offer our sympathy. My husband thinks that I should not have said that. What is your opinion, Mrs. Beeckman?

Also, I did not ask if there were anything I could do to help. Later I thought that I should have made this offer.

We have known this family for several years, but they are not close friends of ours. They are very particular about good manners, and I too am very anxious to know if I did the right thing. A.

I think, dear lady, that you are being unnecessarily worried about the thing you did say and the offer you didn't make.

Now I don't believe that your husband was very serious when he suggested that you shouldn't have said that it wouldn't be possible for you and him to go to the funeral. What he probably meant to say was that you needn't have said this, but I can see no reason why you shouldn't have said it. The important point was that you and your husband were doing just what you should have done.

Also, although it would have indeed been a thoughtful thing for you to have asked if you could be of any help, this offer was not absolutely necessary since these friends are not close friends.

You Can Be Beautiful

Veil of Winter Grime

By ARLINE GOULD

WHETHER you realize it or not . . . winter has dropped veil over your face . . . a veil of dullness that comes from deeply ground-in grime and too many hours spent indoors . . . and now spring gives you your chance to get out again, and cosmetic genius offers you a cleanser that really is a milky-toned rejuvenator!

It's for that type of skin you hear us talking about so much . . . the dry, sensitive kind . . . and it was created to cleanse deeply and yet at the same time replace necessary oils that keep the skin soft and young. To use it is as refreshing as holding up your face into a warm April rain . . . the kind of April showers we used to have!

You can get a nice big cone-shaped bottle of this aristocratic milky cleanser for the price of a regular cleansing cream, and it can last even longer!

If you're really in earnest about softening your complexion and making it look clear as the skin of a child who hasn't reached the cosmetic age . . . cleanse your face thoroughly with this wonderful liquid three times a day for a week . . . you'll be amazed and delighted.

Such a treat to use! Smooth it gently into the skin with your fingertips . . . working it in slowly . . . and leave it on for a minute or two if you can. It will soak up the make-up and dust . . . it will search for the hidden grime that penetrates below the surface . . . and you'll wonder and be a little chagrinned at the evidence that comes off on the cleansing tissues!

If you would like to learn about this milky, rejuvenating cleanser for sensitive, dry skin, inexpensive in spite of its background of exclusive salons, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5:30, except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Curtain Kiss

By NORAH SMARIDGE

THEY were due at the Ajax Players at 8:30 to rehearse; in two weeks the club was putting on a benefit for the Maplecrest Founding Hospital.

It was 8 now, but Jim didn't move.

He'd asked her to supper at the Bluebird, and they were sitting at an alcove table. A small one; too small for Jane's peace of mind. Jim's hand was lying near her on the table, and the temptation to cover it with her own was almost irresistible.

She mustn't. In all these weeks he'd made no sentimental gesture toward her. They'd been pals, companionable and casual.

He didn't bother much with girls; he was engrossed in his job, selling insurance. He wanted to get to the top. He was impartially nice to the club members, Jane reflected. And if he saw more of her, well . . . it was only because she was his protegee.

He'd been the first to welcome her when, shy and lonely, she'd walked into the club, asking if she could join. It was Jim Redmond who encouraged her to try for a role; the club wasn't burdened with talent. It was Jim who led the applause, who took her back to her room in the Residence Club, and promised they'd see that she didn't die of homesickness. Actually, she belonged to St. Louis, but a relative had found her a job with a Maplecrest lawyer.

The club had been pleased with her; especially Jim. He'd never guessed how she'd fallen for him.

Lately, she'd been terrified of giving herself away. They'd given her the lead opposite Jim . . . and she simply couldn't act. She dried up at the emotional scenes, scared of breaking her restraint and giving a too-realistic performance.

Suddenly he grinned shyly at her, handing over a small, square jeweler's box.

"It's very small . . . but please have it!"

A ring box, Jane stared at it, her heart leaping. He did care, then. She did matter . . .

"Jim, it . . . it's beautiful!" Her voice sounded flat in her own ears.

It was. A silver pin, a Jensen design of a gay, little sailing ship. But it wasn't what she wanted. It wasn't a ring. A pin had no significance.

"You mentioned you'd a birthday somewhere about now." Jim got up, taking their coats from the rack. "Glad you like it. Now we'd better make tracks!"

The Cast of Characters in "Curtain Kiss"

JANE, a poor actress, madly in love with

JIM, who mixes business with amateur acting

CAROL, a good amateur actress, who wears her heart on her sleeve.

She was desperately grateful to the waitress hurrying up with the check. By the time they got outside, she'd have her expression under control.

PREDATORY CAROL

They were a bit late, but nobody noticed. They were collected round a vivid blonde in a striking red velvet suit.

"Here come our leads!" The director pushed his way toward them. "I want to introduce a valuable new member, Carol Henneker . . . she's studied in New York . . ."

"Only nobody'd know it!" Carol flashed a deprecating smile. "I hear you're doing 'The Lady Insists' . . . that's exciting. I've understudied that."

It was Jim who answered her. Because it was Jim whom she addressed, smiling into his eyes. A premonitory quiver went through Jane. Carol knew how to use those eyes. She was the predatory type . . . and she'd singled Jim out already.

"On the stage, please!" The order made Carol break away reluctantly to seat herself in the front row.

Jane did shockingly badly in the first act. She was cruelly conscious of Carol Henneker, taking everything in. At the end, there was a sudden exclamation from Carol.

"I've a nerve even to comment, I know!" Her voice had a deliberate husky appeal. "But doesn't that scene lack something? A . . . sort of abandon!" She jumped up from her seat. "Dare I try to give you the impression? I did tell you we'd done it in New York . . . in the graduation series at the academy!"

"Come ahead!" Jim's voice rose in the buzz of chatter. And that was all it took to send Carol to the stage, and June to the front row.

Carol was good. Darn good. Jane watched her, fascinated. There was no one in the club to touch her. She made them all look what they were . . . mediocre amateurs. She even quenched Jim.

But that didn't matter so much. Jim was so handsome he hardly needed to act. And they made an eye-filling pair. Carol's coloring in direct contrast with his.

She had the clothes, too. And that mattered, in an amateur show. Look at the suit she was wearing. It . . . it dressed up the scene!

There was spontaneous applause when they finished. And Carol came over graciously to Jane.

JANE'S DECISION

"More like that.' But I'm sure Jane can interpret it that way!"

Jane looked desperately at Jim. If he'd only give her some sign. But he didn't. He was staring at Carol. So Jane had to make her own decision.

"Let Caro' take the part! She's word-perfect . . . and she's splendid opposite Jim." She rushed on. "It'll be a hit, with Carol. We could give more performances. Raise more funds for the Foundlings. I don't care. I'll prompt or something . . ."

She swayed them at last. And stayed huddled in the front row, till the rehearsal was over. At least Jim would say she was a good sport. Already her spirits rose as he came striding toward her.

"Want the Wilsons to give you a lift, Jane? Carol wants me to stick around and go over a few things." He gave her shoulder a little squeeze. "Be seeing you!"

It was the gesture that unnerved her. It had so little significance . . . now. Yesterday it might have meant something. Affection . . . tenderness. But now it was just a consolation prize.

She scarcely saw Jim after that night. After rehearsals, he stayed behind with Carol and the director. He only walked home with Jane once; even then he seemed preoccupied.

"Not feeling neglected, are you?" He grinned. "This thing's got me, while it lasts. I want it to amount to something . . . Carol's giving it everything she has!"

Always Carol. And you had to play up, to look interested.

"You ought to see the place her people have got, up the hill. A young palace." Jim whistled through his teeth. "Must take a fortune to keep it going . . ."

"You've visited there!" Jane flinched; he hadn't told her about it.

"Oh, sure, Carol wanted me up to . . . to talk about the play. And meet her folks. I got on swell with her father!" He chuckled. "They're all excited about this play . . . for Carol's sake. She's their only child; they want her to have everything she wants!"

And she wants you, Jane thought, her hands clenching in her muff. And now she's got you . . . almost. With her parents behind her, Carol could do anything. Wasn't her father owner of the biggest department store in Creswood?

On the night of the performance the house was sold out in advance. They had Carol's people to thank for that. Carol's parents and friends and fellow-students at the Drama School.

In the wings, Jane peered through a slit in the curtains. A dressy audience; people standing at the back. They'd have to give repeat performances.

No repeat performance for her, though. After tonight, she was getting out of the club. She was only torturing herself, staying to watch this thing growing between Jim and Carol.

They were whispering behind her now, waiting to go on. Involuntarily, Jane turned to wish Jim luck. But Carol was holding on to his lapels, smiling into his eyes.

"Give it all you've got, Jim," she was saying. "You know I will!"

They both did, Jane acknowledged. The first and second acts ended in a volley of applause. Jim was better than he'd ever been. But Carol was electric. Slim and vibrant, she had a theatrical beauty. What was more, she had definite talent.

The curtain was due to rise on the third act when Carol rushed up to Jane. She was fumbling with the front of her skin-tight hostess gown.

"Popped a button . . . and the next one's hanging. Lend me a pin, Jane!" Her eyes swept Jane's figure. "That'll do . . . that silver thing . . ."

The pin Jim had given her. Jane swallowed. Carol certainly grabbed everything. Her part . . . her boy friend . . . even the little silver pin he'd given her . . .

But she took it off, handing it quietly to Carol.

DEFINITELY LOST

Jane meant to leave as soon as the prompting was over; the cast was having a supper to celebrate . . . but she'd plead a headache. No one would notice her absence.

But, in spite of herself, something drew her irresistibly forward in the wings. Torment as it was, she had to watch that kiss. That kiss Carol gave Jim just before the curtain descended.

It wasn't much of an embrace. A gay, light, nonchalant kiss. But more than she'd ever given Jim herself!

Carol did it perfectly. Until something happened . . . something unexpected . . . not in the script. Jim's arms went out and pulled Carol closer. Then his lips sought hers.

A different sort of kiss this time. Long, possessive. A kiss that puzzled the audience. There was a breathless silence . . . and then the curtain started to fall.

A burst of clapping broke out. Voices called. The rest of the cast hurried into the wings to take the curtain call.

Nobody noticed Jane, white-faced and stricken, pushing her way out of the wings, snatching her hat and coat from the dressing-room, and stumbling out through the stage-door.

She'd lost Jim now, definitely. She'd never had much hope . . . but there had been a small persistent flicker. Until tonight.

Until that kiss. Because Jim gave that kiss to Carol. A kiss that wasn't in the script. Jim had lost his head. And it had taken Carol to make him.

It was only when she reached her room in the Residence Club that Jane remembered that Carol still had her silver pin. But it didn't matter now. Nothing mattered.

She was undressing for bed when the telephone rang in her room.

"A Mr. Redmond wants to see you, Miss Anderson. He says he knows it's late . . . but it's important. Can you come down? . . ."

Jim. Jane reached for her things, bewildered.

He was striding up and down the reception-room when she got there. When he saw her, he wheeled round.

"Say, Jane, why didn't you stay? Aren't sick, are you? He pulled her down on the arm of a chair. "Don't be sick . . . I've a whale of a lot to tell you! Jane, I'm just about to pull off a big thing . . . and we can get married as soon as you like." He grinned, suddenly embarrassed. "I guess you do feel the same way I do. It's not much of a hand at the romantic talk . . . and I've been holding my horses till I had something sure!"

"What . . . what's the big thing?"

"I've been hanging around Henneker's for months, trying to get some of his insurance. With no luck. Till the break of getting in with Carol. That brought me smack up against her old man . . . and, as I told you, he took to me! Jim chuckled. "I knew the best way to get at him was through Carol . . . so I gave that darn play all I'd got . . ."

"But Carol?" Jane stared. "Hasn't she fallen for you? And you . . . Jim."

"That kiss was fast thinking!" He laughed aloud. "When she kissed me, she got her pin stuck in my shirt. If she'd moved, she'd have ripped my shirt-front . . . and a fine curtain that would have made! So I grabbed her, till the curtain went down!"

Her pin had won it. Her silver pin! Jane wanted to laugh for joy.

"But Carol . . . if you don't want to marry her, Roy Hennecker won't want to give you the insurance!"

"Carol doesn't want me," he chuckled. "She's just a little lad who doesn't miss a thing. I sized her up. Last week it was me, maybe, but tonight it's Hollywood. There was a scout in the audience . . . and he's fixing us a screen test for her. I left her making eyes at him at supper. Suddenly he took Jane's hand, staring into her face. "Jane, what's the matter, now?"

It's a wonder you don't know when I'm such a bad actress," Jane admitted. "Can't you see what I want?" And she lifted her mouth for his kiss.

THE END.

Sow Seeds Carefully

By T. W. LEGGETT

SOW SEEDS carefully to obtain the most plants possible from a given number of seeds. To sow the seeds too thickly does not give each little seedling an opportunity to develop into a sturdy, vigorous plant. To cover tiny seeds deeply is to bury them.

The pot at the left is too crowded, with the seeds poorly spaced, although commonly they are sown closer than that. The pot at the right shows the seeds well spaced

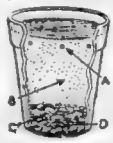
Many flower seeds can be safely started indoors. If in pots, place the seeds at equal distances apart. At left are two pots showing the seeds placed before they are covered with soil.

The bottom of the pot at D is covered with a layer of pieces of broken pots, to insure good drainage. Then the pot is filled with soil composed of equal parts of loam and sand and a little peat moss sifted or rubbed quite fine, and mixed with it.



When the plant is completed, stand pot in water up to half its height. Let the soil absorb the water from the bottom. As soon as the surface of the soil is moist, remove from the water and let drain. Then cover with a pane of glass. Set away in the dark.

When the seedlings are up, remove the glass and place the pot in moderate light. The glass prevents evaporation, so the soil will remain moist and not require watering again, possibly until the seedlings are up. Then it is necessary to remove the glass to allow plenty of air or the seedlings may damp off.

When the seedlings have had moderate light for a day or two give them a little early morning sun to green them up well. Then let them have all the sun they will stand and good ventilation, but be careful to see that the sun is not so strong as to cause wilting.

With care more plants than ever before will be produced from each packet of seeds. If there is a surplus, for which there is no room in the garden, neighbors will be glad of the seedlings.

BOSTON AFTER DARK

MY NAME IS _____

MY ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the five other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., April 15, to Sat., April 20, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, before midnight, Sat., April 27, [illegible] with 10c in coin. In return for remittances, contestants will receive a sealed set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor c/o the Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appears in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One Hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Duplicate does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestants, in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of such tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles without assistance, in the office of the Boston Record or the Boston American, in case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 15 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, the Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others, the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the Contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the Contestant.

Annual Race-Psychosis Starts at Narragansett

SHOUT THE GLAD TIDINGS! Bust the baby's pig bank! Search the sock for winter savings! Raid the wife's teapot for hoarded dimes! For this is race day at Narragansett, and already 900 gambling steeds are quartered in horseville, abaft Pawtucket's scrub wilderness. All is ready for the gala beginning of New England's annual race-psychosis.

AUSTEN LAKE

. . . Yonder, beyond the big glass ark and the winter-killed turf of the infield, a voice was testing the amplifying horns on the judges' cubicle. "1-2-3-4 . . . all is well," said the voice. Incandescent numerals winked and shivered on the tote board, suggestive of the nervous tremors Mr. and Mrs. Two-bucks would feel later in the day. A little to the left lies the Clubhouse, where folk who have higher social yearnings and pay a larger fee to sit on unfastened chairs amid the refinements of lipstick ladies and male tailor's models. And above that rests Walter O'Hara's old pent-house where the old visionary-cuckoo set himself up as a one-man social set, before ambition and local politics hauled him down.

Far across the dirt oval and hidden behind a row of pin-firs lies the low-roofed horse barns where April's seaboard air is sharp with harness smells and commingled odors of ammonia, resin and stale seepage. Pet roosters crane rubbery necks and scold the new day on tiptoe. Stable mutts frisk their hides for fleas. Goats sneer at strangers. And the pixie people of the barns fork out overnight stall sweepings and feed their beast mid-morning breakfasts of bundled carrot tops, dry cereals and tapwater.

* * *

TRAINING TIME AT NARRAGANSETT BEGINS in the deep chill of early morning when lean hostlers come out to bark cigaret coughs, strip quilts and leg bandages off their animals and strap on saddles shaped like the halves of split, salt herring. Stable swipes, little larger than monkeys, climb up and sit with their knees hugged under their chins—pinch faced midgets with the light of hardship in their eyes, schoolboys with pip squeak voices and adolescent fuzz on their cheeks, underbred adults who have starved themselves to undersize. It's a world in grotesque.

All this week in the far corner of the dirt saucer, against a background of green rail, Buddy Wingfield has stood on his starting platform, schooling the horses in the new Puett gate. The gate is built like a trestle—a series of padded cells where electric latches lock the dobbins in and hold them cramped and steady while Buddy stands with his starting trigger behind his back. The stable swipes wangle their mounts, stern first, into the narrow slots, yipping soprano swears, as the horses squirm irritably and furl their lips like window shades. Hatred is mutual all around.

Buddy demonstrates the new gate with pride, pressing his hand switch and releasing the horses with a "yeeeow" and a din of duplex fire gongs that are hidden in the overhead bridgework. The horses plunge forward like drunks being bounced through old-fashioned bar doors and are off in a churn of rumps and a fountain of moist clods.

BEHIND THE GRANDSTAND AND ABOVE THE executive offices is the jockeys' tack-room. Few people are permitted there, where the midget men sit in a common room under eaves that are hung with silk blouses. They squat before open lockers, a gawdy crew of mites in brilliant colors. Uniformed valets shine their boots, run their errands and press their clothes, grown men who serve the tots for a weekly fee.

Each jockey furnishes his own saddle, weighing from 1½ to 3 pounds and fashioned with the care of a lady's corset. Complete with bird-perch stirrups, these saddles cost $60. A surcingle costs $8, a lead-pad $12.50, a whip $10, boots $18, britches $15—so that the kid's outlay, in duplicates of each unit, costs him about $300.

* * *

THE LITTLE CHERUBS, SOME OF THEM SLIVERS not more than 15 years, have not arrived at that agonizing state where they must fight back nature's effort to grow them up to full-fashioned manhood. Lads like Walter Taylor, the nation's leading rider, and Arlin Bassett, an apprentice kid.

There are long rubber shirts which the growing kids wear next to their skins to melt off extra laid during morning road jaunts around the country. There is a haunting, hollow look in the older jockeys' eyes and a pinched pucker about their lips—self-starved dwarfs like Tommy Luther and Joe Rosen. Luther, wispy gnome with cornstalk legs, an infant's chest and a hard, white light in his eye, is a dry husk of a man who lives on bird seed, weeds and wind. Nature has given him up. But Taylor is a chubby puppy with a girl's complexion, a lad who ought to be bringing apples to his teacher.

A LONG TABLE IN THE MIDDLE OF THE ROOM has large, painted numbers, from 1 to 15, on its top. There, before races, the valets lay freshly laundered saddle clothes, bearing corresponding digits and pile on top the required racing gear. Overhead hang the silks, 500 sets and arranged according to the spectrum, a rainbow assortment of which Jay Shine, the color steward is keeper.

Jocks report at Narragansett promptly at 1 p. m., more than 200 of them who must lurk around the premises until the final race, whether they have mounts or not. Idle lads may, with special permission, go down to the judges' enclosure and watch the races under constant guard of the Pinkertons, who escort them to and fro. They are a breed apart from the human standard. And for most of them their professional life is finished before it has fairly begun.

GANSETT OPENS 28-DAY MEETING

By JACK CONWAY

NARRAGANSETT PARK, PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 17—The thoroughbred race horse returns to New England today as Narragansett Park opens its spring meeting that will run through May 18.

It was expected that a gay, colorful crowd would be in clubhouse and grandstand when the field left the barrier today in the first race of an eight-race program at 2:15 p. m.

The betting will probably not be as feverish as it was at the opening of pari-mutuel wagering at Jamaica on Monday, but it will be active. In the past frequenters of the local racing strip have waited until the second week of the turf sport before making a real assault on the pari-mutuel machines. They have been anxious to get a true line on the thoroughbreds before risking large wads of money.

One of the finest field of sprinters in the country is entered for the sixth race of the day, a six furlongs race.

HE'S IN—Bill Farnsworth, Jockey Calvert up, is starter in today's opening day feature at Narragansett.

WILSON LIKES FARNSWORTH

Dave Wilson has given the nod to Bill Farnsworth who was lately beaten in a driving rose finish at Keeneland recently. Bill Farnsworth has been a consistent performer at New England tracks, taking down many big purses.

Mrs. E. Denemark of Chicago, who has won many purses at Narragansett in the past, has an entry of Court Dance and Prairie Dog in this race.

Be Jabbers, who has won some good races at Narragansett and at juicy prices, will be a starter. Be Jabbers is a good finisher, but it is a question whether the six furlongs distance will give the Coward horse a chance to get up with the leaders.

$1200 PURSE

Peon, Woodsaw, Silent Witness, Night Editor and Early Morn, the latter coupled with Bill Farnsworth in the betting, have also been entered.

There will be a purse of $1200 for this race.

In the fourth race, another six furlong event, there will also be a select field of starters. The $1500 purse has attracted the entries of Penabud, Fair Time, Whiskolo, Warlaine, Savlar, Aurrate, Sadie F. and Bilbouquet.

Other than the last two races today's card features sprinters. The last two races will be for one mile and a sixteenth each, and will bring back to New England horses which have shown at local tracks in the past.

Midshipman, which won in the mud at Bowie the other day, will compete in the eighth race, and will have to beat Don Pietro, Su Khayyam and other good distant horses who have been racing in Maryland and Florida.

TO USE PRUETT GATE

Judge James E. Dooley has added the Pruett electrical starting gate to the equipment at Narragansett Park. This gate will eliminate long post delays. The gate proved successful in Florida and Maryland. It also makes it impossible for an assistant starter to injure the victory chances of a horse by rough handling at the gate.

Tom Thorp and Sam Nuchols will be the stewards representing Narragansett Park, while the veteran and able Judge Frank Bryan will act as State racing steward.

It will be a passless meeting. Turnstiles similar to those used at Rockingham Park have been installed here. There will be a tariff of 50 cents to get into the grandstand, and one of $1 for the club house.

The only passes issued were for members of the working press and for horsemen.

Relegate Riggs to Side Court For Loafing Through Matches

HOUSTON, Tex., April 17 (AP)—He won't like it but Bobby Riggs may have to perspire a little today.

As the River Oaks tennis tournament entered its third round, Riggs was scheduled to meet an opponent who figured to make him get out of a slow trot—Lefty Brown of Waco, a hardy campaigner.

Riggs, criticized for loafing through his first match, shot back "Why should I work? I can beat lots of these guys with a balloon."

Riggs defeated Champ Reese of Atlanta, 6—3, 6—4, yesterday in his second round match, but was relegated to a side court, out of view of all but a handful of spectators.

The women's division moped along, with several first round matches still to be played. Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Boston, seeded No. 1, safely got by her first enemy, Mrs. Sylvion Kivlin of Houston 6—0, 6—1.

SONNY'LL MAKE GOOD, FATHER SISTI TOLD

April 17, 1940.

Dan Sisti,
Buffalo, N. Y.
Dear Dan:

When you and the Mrs. left Bradenton for the East Coast, "Sonny" was in high. But, he started to wilt, shortly after you started to explore the Sunshine State. He'd been playing from four to six hours daily for a month under a Florida sun, which finally got him down.

Because Casey Stengel, who is sold 100 per cent on your boy, decided that "Sonny" needed a rest, Sibby played in but three games from March 30 until the third and deciding tilt with the Red Sox last Sunday at Fenway Park.

During the first seven games in the Grapefruit League, "Sonny" came up with 9 singles, 2 doubles and a three-bagger, and was hitting for .400.

A few days after we returned from the trip to West Palm Beach and Miami, Casey came to the conclusion that "Sonny" needed a lay off. So, he rested up your pride and joy for five games. Then, played him in five out of the next six contests and shelved him from the Knoxville title at Valdosta until last Sunday.

Well, what I'm trying to convey to you is that Sibby lived up to Casey's predictions yesterday afternoon in the opening game of the National League season against the Brooklyn Dodgers. He didn't play in either of the Brooklyn games in the Southland but he was very much in evidence yesterday, for he made two of the Bees' five hits.

In the first inning, "Sonny" laid down a perfect bunt and raced around to third when "Cookie" Lavagetto unloaded and heaved the ball almost into the bleachers. But old Bill Klem thumbed him back to second base, from where he was sacrificed over to third. But neither Maxie West nor Tony Cuccinello were able to bring him home. After he had rolled out to Wyatt in the third, Sibby smacked a two bagger to right in the sixth. Between us, Dan, it was a single but "Sonny" put on a burst of speed and beat Roy Cullenbine's perfect throw to second by as fine a fade-away slide as either of us have ever seen. "Sonny" moved to third while Pete Coscarart was tossing out Buddy Hassett, but again Maxie West was unable to deliver, ending the inning with a fly to short center, which Charlie Gilbert gathered in after a run.

"Sonny" came up with the fielding feature of the game in the 3rd inning. With two down, Whitlow Wyatt hit a "blooper" into short right center. Sibby broke back with the crack of the bat and by a great burst of speed managed to get back to a spot where by leaping for the ball, he was able to make the catch by doing what looked, from the press stand, like a back jack-knife dive. For a moment, due to the fact that he lit on the back of his head, Sibby was stunned, but he recovered immediately and admitted that all that happened was that he'd lost his breath.

Don't you or the Mrs. do any worrying over Sonny. He'll make good, for he's a natural athlete with plenty of stomach. And, we're all pulling for him.

Give my regards to Joe.

Yours for less "Mires,"

BILL GRIMES.

183,957 See Inaugurals

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Uncertain weather held in attendance at some games at the total turnout of 183,957 as in eight cities sounded a cheerful signal for baseball's 1940 major league season.

The campaign was five days old last year before conditions permitted eight games on a single day and it was July before any one-day count equalled yesterday's. The opening day attendance record was set in 1931 by 249,010 fans.

The figures:

Find DiMag Marathoner

Those DiMaggios are in everything.

What with brothers Joe, Dom and Vince in the major leagues, we thought we had heard the last of them, but here's John DiMaggio entered in the 44th annual B. A. A. Marathon run, which will be held Friday over the Hopkinton to Boston course.

John's a Somerville boy, and although he has never made any Olympic teams, feels that the magic name of DiMaggio is enough to allow him to hold his own with the Tarzan Browns, Leslie Pawsons, Don Heinickes, etc., who are favored to be among the leaders in Friday's 26-mile, 385-yard grind.

HASN'T TRIED HILLS

"I've been working out near the Somerville soap works," said John this morning, "and I feel confident I will clean up Friday. I haven't tried the Commonwealth ave. hills yet, but if they get tough I'll just take out a cake of soap and slide over them. My only regret is that there isn't as much money in this racket as there is in baseball. It would be nice to have a wardrobe like Joe DiMarrio's."

The entry list jumped to 186 with DiMaggio's entry, and chances are that more than 200 will toe the starting line Friday. It is a cinch that if the Olympics were not called off, there would be the largest entry ever, for there is nothing like Olympic year to bring the boys out.

RUNNERS ARRIVING HERE

Many of the out-of-town runners have arrived in Boston and have been working out over the course, polishing off in their final training period. Everything is in readiness for the great Patriots' Day Classic —the police in the various towns through which the race will be run have been contacted and large details have been assigned to handle the crowds who will line the highways from start to finish.

The usual efficient detail of State Police will be on hand to give protection to the runners as they wend their way from the roll in the road in Hopkinton to the finish line on Exeter street—and—the Boston Police, under the direction of Supt. Edward W. Fallon and the Captains in the Boston stations through whose districts the race passes will have their usual large number of officers rendering most efficient service within the city limits, without which it would be impossible to successfully conduct the race.

The entries announced yesterday were: Frederick M. Burnham, Jr., Boston Mass.; Rene Montfretit, Montreal, Canada; John DiMaggio, Ajax A. C., Somerville; Robert Wallace, Olympic Club, San Francisco, Cal.; Fred Libby, Framingham; Daniel Kantrawitz, Glencoe A. C., New York; John J. Powers, Medway, Mass.; James E. Curtis, Jr., Providence, and Louis Carcerano, Norfolk Y. M. A., Roxbury.

ANCHORS AWEIGH—Tech varsity crew sweeps up Charles in trial spin. Stern to bow: Mike Biancardi, coxswain; Gavin 8, Shaw 7, Mueller 6, Guething 5, Howard 4, Church 3, Captain Folberth 2, Morse 1.

MANAGOFF FAVORED TO WHIP ERNIE DUSEK

Bobby Managoff's superior speed will make him a slight favorite to down belligerent Ernie Dusek when the two bitter rivals finally settle an old feud tonight in the main bout to Promoter Paul Bowser's all star wrestling tournament at the Arena.

It is the second meeting between the pair. Ernie won the first match in a hotly disputed finish. Since then Managoff was taken ill.

Managoff will concentrate on his drop kick from the very start despite the fact it was a boomerang in his first attempt to quell rough Ernie. On that occasion he flattened the referee instead of Dusek, and the kayoed arbiter was laying helpless when Managoff pinned Dusek. He recovered a few seconds later to see Dusek roll over and pin Managoff. Going on the theory that he should call 'em as he sees 'em, he awarded the fall and match to Dusek.

As you might imagine, there was quite a howl from both Managoff and the fans, and it hasn't completely subsided yet.

The semi-final will see a couple of former champions clash when Gus Sonnenberg takes on Marvin Westenberg. It should be one of the best supporting bouts Promoter Bowser has staged this year.

NO-HIT FELLER MOANS CURVE DIDN'T WORK

CHICAGO, April 17 (AP)—Robert William Andrew Feller stood there in the dressing room, strangely composed but happy, and said "my curve wasn't breaking the way I wanted it to."

He wasn't popping off and he wasn't being facetious. There is no false modesty in the makeup of this 21-year-old Iowa farm boy who yesterday entered baseball's Hall of Fame with a no-hit, no-run game, first ever recorded in the season's opener in modern major league history. He struck out eight batters and walked five. Another reached base on an error.

"I think I've been faster several times," he explained. "Of course that strong wind behind me helped make me faster. But I couldn't seem to throw a curve very well."

A matter of fact, hard working country boy, that's Feller. He congratulated his Cleveland mates just as warmly as they praised him for the 1-0 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

KOLLIE'S BAT TALKS

Rollie Hemsley, Feller's catcher and closest friend on the squad whose triple sent Jeff Heath home with the winning run, said he had seen the young right-hander a lot faster but "he was never a better pitcher—he's got everything."

Standing outside the dressing room in the chilly air was Mrs. William Feller of Van Meter, Ia., waiting to reclaim her famous son from the uproar inside. It wasn't the first time she had witnessed the unusual involving young Bob.

Last June on Mother's Day she was one of 25,000 spectators in Comiskey Park when Bob was pitching. A foul tip from the bat of a White Sox player struck her in the head and she was rushed to a hospital for emergency treatment. As soon as Feller was assured his mother was not seriously injured he returned to the mound and continued his pitching job.

HAS WON 55 GAMES

His great speed, eagerness to learn, and increasing composure under fire has given him a running start toward joining baseball's all-time pitching heroes. He joined the Indians in 1936, a lad of 16 without ever having pitched in a minor league game.

Since then he has won 55 games while losing 30. He led the American League in victories last year with 24 and has led in strikeouts the past two seasons.

PEARSON TURNED IN LAST

No other pitcher in modern times ever tossed a no-hitter to open the diamond season. But on April 19, 1900, Morris I. Amole pitched a no-hit 8-0 victory for Buffalo over Detroit in the first game when the American was still a minor circuit.

And on April 15, 1909, Leon K. Ames pitched nine hitless, runless innings for Brooklyn against New York in the season's inaugural but lost the game in extra innings, 3-0, giving up seven hits in the last four frames of a 13-inning game.

Feller's no-hitter was the first in the big league since Monte Pearson of New York turned the trick against Cleveland on Aug. 27, 1938.

Harris, Dutra On Quincy Card

Harold Harris of Malden, 126-pound New England champ, and Al Dutra of Cambridge, champ of the 135's in 1939, are included in the amateur boxing card at Quincy Arena tomorrow night, Promoter Jimmy Gardner announced today.

The heavyweight class includes a 250-pounder in Jack Silver of South Boston, who has been dubbed the Tony Galento of the pures.

Cronin Gives Dickman Chance To Duplicate Bob Grove Feat

By JOE CASHMAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17—The opening of the baseball season is now history. This is the second day and a second game is coming up here, one which will find Emerson Dickman starting for the undefeated, untied, unscored-on Red Sox against one Sid Hudson of the unfortunate Washington Senators.

But many a day will come and go in this campaign before the spectators at yesterday's local inaugural, and the participants therein, cease thinking of the pitching unreeled by Robert Moses Grove on that occasion.

Thumb through the musty files of the diamond past and you'll find nothing to compare with it for opening day brilliance. In fact, you'll find precious few pitching performances in the game's annals that can be ranked with it.

For seven innings Ole Mose, starting his 16th big league season, had the first perfect game since 1923 in the hollow of his 40-year-old portside paw.

WILLIAMS BREAKS SPELL

He had made everybody forget that President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner were interested spectators among the capacity throng of 31,000; had made everybody forget that Emil "Dutch" Leonard of the Nats was holding the heaviest hitting club in baseball to one unearned run; had made everybody forget everything except his bid to fashion the most sensational opening-day masterpiece ever.

Then the spell was broken in the weirdest way.

Gerry Walker, first solon up in the eighth, lined to left field.

Mose didn't know that. Maybe he didn't give it a thought. Possibly it upset him.

JITTERS PASS

Anyway, after Walker was nipped trying to make second base on the miscue, Cecil Travis slashed a single off Jim Tabor's shins at third and Jimmy Bloodworth sent him to second with another single, which Boss Joe Cronin prevented from going to the outfield by making a great diving stop of the ball.

But if Robert Moses was momentarily disconcerted, his jitters passed almost immediately.

Now the Nats had the tying run on second and the winning marker on first with one down.

So all Ol' Mose did was keep those runners right where they were while he retired the next two batters. Then he set the natives down in order in the ninth.

287TH MAJOR VICTORY

When it was all over and his mates were all but hugging and kissing him as they congratulated him on his two-hit stint, which was his 287th Big League win, the greatest southpaw of all time admitted he had never pitched a better game.

At the same time he insisted that he wasn't upset by the Williams muff.

"I didn't know then or at any other time that I was pitching a perfect game," he asserted. "I was just trying to get the Senators out as easily and as quickly as I could.

"I wouldn't have minded if that error had robbed me of a perfect game as long as it didn't result in the Sox losing the lead. I naturally would like to pitch a no-hitter, but I'm always more than satisfied whenever I can win."

LEFTY TURNS SLUGGER

Mose said nothing about his hitting, but it was one of two singles he made which resulted in the run which gave him the triumph.

He hit a high line-drive single which caromed off Second-sacker Jimmy Bloodworth's glove in the second inning. Bobby Doerr, on second at the time, was chased home on the blow and made it because Rick Ferrell, receiving the Bloodworth throw in plenty of time to make the putout at the plate, let the ball trickle through his legs.

Thus we come to today.

SECOND STARTING ROLE

Emerson Dickman, starting, will be tackling such an assignment for only the second time in more than a year. He opened but one game last season, though he participated in 47 others as a relief pitcher. He escaped from the bull-pen brigade by his masterful pitching in the South this spring.

Now he must prove he was entitled to the promotion or be demoted to his old job.

Hudson, due to start for the Nats, is attempting an almost impossible jump. He was in the Class D, Florida State League last season.

But down there he won 24 games, and was so impressive in training that he's been given the opportunity to make the grade.

N. Y. Judge Raps Ban on Betting Outside Tracks

NEW YORK, April 17 (AP)—Mayor LaGuardia organized today a campaign against unauthorized bookmaking at racetracks while a Bronx magistrate expressed the opinion that the legalization of pari-mutuels had opened the way toward "another system like prohibition."

The mayor conferred with police department heads, explaining later that the provision in the new law making bookmaking a misdemeanor would be "vigorously prosecuted."

Magistrate Frank Oliver, dismissing a bookmaking charge yesterday, observed that an unusual situation now exists "with the state of New York being a bookmaker and policemen arresting citizens also for being bookmakers." He remarked that this was setting up "a double standard in our gambling."

"I am sorry," the magistrate continued, "that in passing the pari-mutuel bill the government didn't put itself in a more consistent position by passing some law giving pari-mutuels a standing outside of the tracks as well as within, so those who couldn't attend the track might well avail themselves of the pari-mutuels.

"We ought to have a more widespread law so as to deal with all the evil, if ithe an evil, and to gain all the lucrative profits, if there are any to be gained, for the benefit of the state."

It was hypocrisy, he added, to make a criminal of an individual because he takes a bet "outside the fence" and to make it a virtue for the state to take one inside.

You can't pull this flavor out of a hat . . .

For nearly 50 years we've been brewing Malt Brews—made solely of Hops and Barley-Malt—but no other grain! And all the skill of these years goes into giving you the remarkable flavor you get in our White Label Malt Beer.

If you haven't tasted it yet, you're in for one pleasant surprise. Try White Label today—in bottles or on draught—and get the best beer you've ever swallowed. Just Taste . . and Compare!

This beer is made solely from hops and barley-malt and no other grain and is therefore a "malt" beer. This is the way fine imported beers are brewed; it is the distinction which, in popular opinion, sets Trommer's apart as a more palatable and thoroughly satisfying brew.

EASY, NOW, MR. PRESIDENT!

BACK AGAIN in Boston at N. L. Field, Sibby Sisti of the Bees not only beats out a bunt down the third base line but kept going all the way around the circuit only to be ordered back to second. Lavagetto's throw which went by Camilli was lost in right field and the ground ruling held Sisti to two bases.

HABIT with Joe DiMaggio, missing opening games. The Yankee slugger is shown undergoing electrical treatment for twisted knee while mates were losing to Athletics. It was the fourth time in five seasons that DiMaggio missed an inaugural.

Battle On Over Striped Bass

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 17 (AP)—A battle between sports and commercial fishermen over a bill to limit to 16 inches the length of striped bass taken from Rhode Island waters threatened to split the Republican majority in the Senate today.

Sports fishermen want the bill passed as a measure for preserving the game fish. Commercial fishermen declare the bill would affect their pocketbooks adversely.

Two Republican proponents of the bill, fighting for the sports fishermen, threatened to move to discharge the fisheries committee from consideration of the measure, but a Republican caucus decided to keep hands off and go along with the fisheries committee in whatever it decides.

Woolf Derby Entry Lame

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 17 (AP)—Prompt Pay, Herbert M. Woolf's well-regarded Kentucky Derby candidate, pulled up lame in a three-quarter of a mile workout today, jeopardizing his chances of running in the classic.

Woolf, who witnessed the workout, said he could make no definite announcement of the effect on Prompt Pay's DeDrby chances until tomorrow, as it would take veterinarians 24 hours to determine the horse's condition.

By JACK CONWAY

JOE LOUIS HAS been put very much on the spot by Steve Casey, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, who offers to bend the "Brown Bomber's" ears back in a "mixed" bout. As proof of his sincerity, Casey says he is willing to make a side bet of $100,000 that he will win.

Casey has the support of a syndicate that is headed by Paul Bowse.

"I do not consider Joe Louis a super-athlete," said Casey in making his challenge. "He had been picking on second and third raters. Therefore the recent instant where Louis knocked out Johnny Paychek of Des Moines, Iowa, in two rounds.

"There is not any reason why Louis should boast over victories in contests with Max Baer, Jimmy Braddock and Tony Galento. These men are old, and far past their fistic peak.

"I have backing of $100,000 for a mixed bout with Louis, and I know I would win. In addition, a promoter would probably be willing to offer a purse of $200,000 for a bout between Louis and myself.

"Louis fought Paychek for less than $20,000. The champion accepted his small purse as he knew he was sure to win.

"I do not expect Louis to sign as quickly to meet me as he did for the Paychek bout. In his heart, he knows I can beat him.

"If I would have to do is to get Louis off his feet, and I would pin him. In defeating Tiger Warrenton in a recent private bout at the Coliseum, I convinced myself I can beat any boxer.

"Warrenton hit me one terrific right hand uppercut on the jaw that took me to the soles of my feet, but I rushed to close quarters, lifted Tiger in the air and pinned him."

Louis thinks he can beat Casey, he has a chance to win a $100,000 side bet and get a purse of at least $150,000. My guess is that Louis will not have any part of Casey in a mixed contest. A champion wrestler will always beat a champion boxer in such a test.

* * *

CASEY'S CHALLENGE of Louis is a result of an experience he had with Larry Kelley, veteran trainer of boxers, in this office. Kelley was chatting with this writer when Casey dropped in to say hello.

"This is a chance to see what a boxer could do against a wrestler," I said. "Let Harry Kelley be the boxer, and Casey the wrestler."

I didn't think Kelley would go for it, but he did. Striking a boxing pose, Kelley looked over at Casey and said:

"Now go easy, Steve. Remember I'm only a manager and trainer, and you're a young fellow."

"Okay, go ahead," I said.

Casey made one lunge for Kelley's legs. Harry moved back quickly, but couldn't get away. Casey struck him between the left knee and left ankle.

As I looked at Casey's body going through the air with the speed of a shot from a cannon, I got frightened. I was fearful of what might happen to Kelley.

Kelley's body was driven back against a wall, missing a window by a few inches. If Harry had struck the window, he and Casey would have had a three-story drop to the street below.

When Kelley hit the wall with Casey's vice-like grip on his left leg, he skyrocketed off it and crashed to the floor. Harry's head missed a radiator by inches.

I didn't have to give Casey the fall. Kelley conceded that to him.

"I should sue you, Steve," said Kelley when he got his breath. "You don't know your own strength. You should meet Joe Louis in a mixed bout. You would break his leg in a round."

"Do you think I could beat Louis?" pressed Casey.

"You would be a cinch to do so," replied Kelley.

A few days later this writer arranged Casey's mixed bout test with Tiger Warrenton. The small audience that saw that affair readily agreed that Casey could beat any man in the world.

* * *

BOXERS USUALLY avoid mixed contests with wrestlers. They realize that once the wrestler gets them off their feet he is almost certain to beat him.

For a boxer to beat a wrestler he would have to knock him out, quickly.

It is impossible for a boxer to get the full power behind his blows if he is obliged to hit down at a crouching wrestler.

When King Levinsky met Ray Steel in a mixed contest in St. Louis several years ago, he held on to the ring ropes and tried to keep the wrestler off with his punches. Levinsky finally out loose with a right-hand punch that was wild. Steel then got hold of Levinsky's legs, and won quickly.

Mike Jacobs knows as well as anybody else that Louis and Casey would draw $500,000. Still he won't make a serious effort to stage the bout as he would not wish to have Louis risk what looks like sure defeat.

Hurlers Steal Opening Day's Spotlight

Superlative pitching highlighted yesterday's opening day contests in both the American and National Leagues.

Paced by the record-shattering inaugural no-hitter of the young Cleveland fireball artist, Bob Feller, the hurlers allowed but 101 hits in 144 innings and their total runs allowed was only 2.06, lower than the 2.54 earned run average with which Lefty Grove led the American League loop last year.

The veteran Grove's two-hitter, in which he disposed of the first 21 batters to face him, and the three-hit twirling of Kirby Higbe of the Phillies in the National League, were other stellar pitching performances.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

BOB FELLER, Indians—Pitched no-hit, no-run victory over White Sox, striking out eight.

LEFTY GROVE, Red Sox—Held Senators to two hits and gave no bases on balls.

KIRBY HIGBE and GUS SUHR, Phillies —Former's three-hit hurling and latter's three-run homer stopped Giants, 3-1.

CHUBBY DEAN, Athletics—Scattered six hits and knocked home winning run with fly in 10th inning against Yankees.

ARKY VAUGHAN, Pirates—Faced 15-hit attack against Cardinals with three singles, driving in two runs and scoring two.

BAD WEATHER BLOCKS BEES, RED SOX GAMES

Boston's Red Sox and Bees both were idle today as a result of bad weather conditions.

The Bees-Dodgers game at the Hive was postponed because of cold and wet grounds, and the Sox engagement at Washington was put over by wet grounds.
